B.C. Oarsmen Spark Great Day at Olympics

British Columbia had a great day at the Olympic Games yesterday.

Frank Reid's University of British Columbia eight-oared crew and Vancouver sprinter Harry Jerome aren't gold medal winners yet, but yesterday they turned in performances which showed just why they have been rated as the brightest hopes for Canadian victory at Rome.

UBC's oarsmen, only one of whom was in the crew which won a silver medal in the 1956 Games at Melbourne, came up with the shocker of the day by outpulling the favored U.S. Naval Academy eight by a length in a heat victory which put them into the final.

Getting the kind of weather they are used to—a stiff breeze made it choppy going—the British Columbians not only won the race but their time of 6.03.18 was faster than the clocking of any Olympic winner since 1928.

By comparison, the German and Czechoslovakian crews, who also won their heats to reach the final, were clocked in 6.03.34.

Behind Canada and the U.S. in the heat were Russia, Italy, Denmark and Spain. Losers in all three heats will get a second chance in the repechages, with three boats to join the three heat-winners for the final.

Jerome, co-holder of the world 100-metres record of 10 seconds with Germany's Armin Hary, won both his heats yesterday to qualify for the semi-finals.

The slim but husky Canadian ace won his first heat handily in 10.5 seconds, but it was tougher the second time out. He leaned into the tape to get the judges' decision in a blanket finish with Peter Radford of England, A. Seye of France and S. Antao of Kenya. All four were timed in 10.4 seconds but Seye was placed fourth—and eliminated.

Victoria's Lynn Eves was eliminated in his first heat, placing fourth when starry Dave Sime of the U.S. came up fast to barely qualify with a third-place finish. Eves was timed in 10.8 seconds. (Complete details on Page 12.)

'Focus Opinion On Disarming'

NELSON (CP)—Nuclear disarmament must be agreed upon before civilization is wiped out "by some irresponsible junior or someone making a mistake," External Affairs Minister Green said Tuesday.

"The only way that this arms race can be stopped is to focus world opinion . . . through the United Nations."

'REDS BUSY IN NEW PARTY' BUCK TAUNT RILES STRACHAN

Saanich Candidate Cites CCF's Labor Loophole

* * *

CCF leader Robert Strachan last night angrily charged that either an old-line party or big business "probably paid" Canadian Communist leader Tim Buck to say that Communists were taking an active part in the formation of the new CCF-labor political alliance.

"It's dirty, how dirty can they get," thundered Mr. Strachan in Prince Rupert when The Daily Colonist informed him that Mr. Buck had stated 60 members of his Communist party were campaigning within the ranks of labor in negotiations on a merger with the CCF.

PRIMED UNIONISTS

Mr. Buck said about one-third of his members were hiding their political allegiance to avoid being expelled. The infiltrators, he said, were trade unionists primed with communist schooling.

The country's top Red said the infiltrators' main aim was to have the proposed political party revoke its ban on communism before the official merger next August.

"Mr. Buck is obviously mentally incompetent," said Mr. Strachan.

'BIG BUSINESS'

"Big business in this province has become so desperate to try to prevent a CCF victory that it would not surprise me that when the truth comes out we find that big business in this province has paid Mr. Buck to do this."

The CCF leader charged that the Communists "were always ready to make a deal with anyone if it suited their purpose, as was big business always willing to make a deal with anyone to gain its ends.

NO PLACE

"There is no place in the CCF for Communists and there never will be as long as I am CCF leader," declared Mr. Strachan.

In a later statement he charged that Mr. Buck had become the "pawn of Mr. Bennett, Wenner-Gren and his other allies."

SAANICH REPLY

In reply to a question at the all-candidate forum at Brentwood last night Saanich CCF candidate Pat Thomas admitted there were Communists in the CCF.

But he warned this should not be misconstrued by the public that the CCF "welcomed" such individuals who managed to infiltrate into the CCF ranks through their positions in certain groups within organized labor.

JODOIN REPLY

Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin described as "complete untruths" the statements by Mr. Buck.

"Mr. Buck, I presume, would say anything," said Mr. Jodoin.

Asked if the 1,000,000-member CLC or the CCF feared Communist infiltration in the new party at all he said:

"HAVE NO FEAR"

"We have no fear of that. The CLC and its affiliates operate under the democratic system which Mr. Buck knows nothing about.

"The Canadian labor movement is very clean."

Stanley Knowles, executive vice-president of the CLC, former member of Parliament for the CCF and a prime mover in the formation of the new party, said simply: "It's nonsense."

Referring to Mr. Buck's statement that the immediate aim of the infiltrators is to have the proposed political party revoke its ban on communism, Mr. Knowles said:

"The suggestion that any such plan could succeed is sheer nonsense.

PARTY ON GUARD

"The new party is on guard against any such infiltration," he added.

Mr. Buck also stated that Communists are attending educational conferences called by CCF-labor negotiators in preparation for the amalgamation convention next year.

"The top CCF leaders have refused to allow the Communist party any part in the new amalgamation movement," said Mr. Buck, "so we are bringing our influence to bear from without through our trade unionist members who are being included in the new political party."

PRIVATE ARENA

He said the Communist party has been knocking on the door of the CCF-labor merger to provide a private arena where Communists and more moderate Socialists can settle their differences and present a united political front.

Mr. Buck, who is in B.C. to support 19 Communist candidates in the Sept. 12 election, said he will ask the party to replace him, after 31 years as national secretary.

WANTS TO RETIRE

He will be 70 in January and admitted that he would like to hand the party leadership to a younger successor.

Mr. Buck confided that he will request retirement at the party national convention in November and seek a position as a travelling speaker and a teacher in party schools across Canada.

Maritimers Flee Fire Disaster

HALIFAX (CP)—A 100-square-mile area of western Prince Edward Island was declared a disaster area Wednesday night as forest fires continued uncontrolled and residents were reported suffering from severe bronchial congestion from smoke.

Police began moving women and children from all villages to Summerside, 25 miles from the fires, and planned to continue the evacuation until all people affected by the smoke were removed.

Winds were increasing as firefighters tried vainly to check fresh outbreaks. More than 100 men and all available equipment have been fighting the fires since Sunday.

Schools, open for about two weeks, were closed in some areas, and workmen left their jobs when fire destroyed five homes and 21 barns.

About 400 residents of the southern Newfoundland communities of Jean de Baie, Spanish Room and Rocky Harbor were preparing to evacuate their homes in the face of a 1,000-acre fire.

In Nova Scotia an outbreak in western Cape Breton was reported burning a mile wide and heading for the tiny village of Grand Anse.

Neighboring States Blunt with Lumumba

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—African neighbors bluntly told Premier Patrice Lumumba's government Wednesday to stop harassing the United Nations and to co-operate with UN efforts to end the chaos within this two-month-old nation.

The setback for Lumumba in the conference of independent African states coincided with a report from Elisabethville of reverses for his troops in their campaign against rebels in Kasai province.

Free Road to Berlin Repudiated by Reds

BERLIN (UPI)—East Germany today repudiated four-power agreements giving the West free access to West Berlin and continued tightening its restrictions on traffic to the isolated city, despite a sharp Allied protest.

Claim that the four-power compacts were null and void was made by deputy foreign minister Otto Winzer, who maintained East Germany was a sovereign state, not bound by legal obligations contracted by the Soviet Union.

The Russians remained silent.

The new crackdown on travel aimed at keeping "agitators" from entering West Berlin to attend a four-day refugee rally.

The Communists refrained from interfering with rail and air traffic crossing the 110-mile corridor from West Germany, but turned back some cars and subjected others to long waits.

Baffling Speeder In Skies

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (AP) — A mysterious reddish object circling the earth has been photographed by a tracking camera of the Grumman Aviation Engineering Corporation.

It's a tenth the size of the Echo 1 balloon satellite and travelling twice as fast. It doesn't appear to be an artificial satellite or a meteor.

Fire Exodus 'Just Like Wartime'

QUEBEC (CP) — Villagers streamed out of two more Gaspe Peninsula towns Wednesday as a 14-day-old forest fire continued its rampage in Gaspe South County.

A policeman said it looked something like pictures of Second World War refugees fleeing towns under bombardment.

"Among the evacuees were families of 10, 12 and even 14, children," the policeman said. "They lost everything."

Cheers, Songs Greet Tommy

NANAIMO — A heckler-free crowd of more than 1,100 voters last night greeted diminutive Saskatchewan Premier Tommy Douglas with a standing ovation, then after his speech rose as a man to sing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

In perhaps the largest election meeting ever staged here, Mr. Douglas quickly won the audience over to his side as he slashed statements made by Premier Bennett.

Mr. Douglas, likely new leader of the CCF-labor political party, spoke in support of Nanaimo CCF candidate Colin Cameron and CCF leader Robert Strachan.

He said industry doesn't come to a province because "the premier has a nice sweet smile or they like the looks of a cabinet minister. They come because a province has resources they can't get elsewhere and they hope to process them and get a return on their money.

"But in Saskatchewan industry will not be allowed to exploit labor or our resources without giving the people who own them adequate rewards for their use."

Mystery Deepens

SEATTLE (AP)—Discovery of an upper dental plate and a section of arm bone, sawed at both ends, added new mystery Wednesday to the "septic tank" murder case. They were not from either of two missing women police have been seeking. (See earlier story on Page 25.)

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

While G. E. Mortimore is on holiday, some past All Aboard columns are being reproduced.

(From March 9, 1958)

POLITICAL parties must sometimes decide whether to retain a weak candidate, or throw him overboard.

If the party leaders decide to jettison him, they must figure a way to administer the heave-ho without getting tangled in the ropes and falling overboard themselves.

A political leader, like a pirate chief, needs a nimble brain and an elastic conscience. If he's too rigid in either department, or too slow in the uptake, he finds himself thrashing around among the sharks, while his intended victim stares loftily down on him from the rail.

For reasons like those, I'm glad I'm only a steerage passenger in the ship of state, rather than an officer or a member of the crew.

* * *

When I say "weak candidate," I use the phrase in its relative sense. The weak candidate may simply have the wrong kind of brain. He may be an expert egg-candler, atomic scientist, or short-order cook, but a dunce in public affairs.

He may be a fine citizen who would make a whiz-bang of a member of Parliament, if he could get there and lap a few years of experience under his belt. But he won't get there, because he is polling-booth poison.

Maybe this candidate has aroused the anger and ridicule of the people by speaking for lost causes and adopting dubious allies and proteges, like food faddists, quack doctors and foreigners.

Maybe he has alienated the populace by attacking such holy institutions as Motherhood, Free Enterprise or Mike Pearson. Maybe the candidate contracted whooping cough in Grade 9, and never quite caught up with the rest of the students. Somehow, he has become a Jonah, and it's bad luck for the party to keep him aboard.

* * *

But no matter what the party does about this candidate, they are bound to be wrong with somebody.

If they ditch the man, their enemies and some of their friends will say: "What a ruthless, disloyal crowd!"

If they keep him, they will be condemned for not finding a better candidate. In either case, they are in danger of losing the constituency.

There seem to be only two ways out of this situation. Lure him away with the offer of a big, easy job, or send a man around with a vial containing a culture of a fatal disease, under orders to pour the stuff in the candidate's martini.

Saskatchewan Premier Lists Assets at Nanaimo

By ALEC MERRIMAN
Colonist Staff Reporter

NANAIMO—Capital investment in Saskatchewan has increased 160 per cent—from $241,000,000 just 12 years ago to $627,900,000 last year — compared to an increase of 159 per cent in B.C., Saskatchewan CCF Premier T. C. Douglas told a friendly meeting of 1,100 here last night.

He said that with a 140 per cent increase in per capita investment—$288 in 1944 to $690 last year—Saskatchewan has had the highest per capita increase anywhere in Canada.

BENNETT CHARGES

He was answering charges made by Premier Bennett that under a CCF government investment would decrease, industry would leave and the population would go down.

"When we took office only 19 per cent of Saskatchewan production came from other than agricultural products. Today, not 19 per cent, but 64 per cent of our total production income is non-agricultural . . . and we have almost doubled our agricultural production," he said.

MOST GROWTH

"Our rate of growth exceeds any other province. Some $70,000,000 of new money is being invested in our province."

When the CCF took over in Saskatchewan revenue from resources was less than $250,000, but today resources bring in $275,000 a year.

"The only freedom a CCF government takes is the freedom of one man to exploit another," he said.

EVERY DOLLAR

He said Saskatchewan has 100 oil wells owned by the people through co-operatives and every dollar from them goes back to the people in patronage dividends or to them through the government to pay hospital bills and other benefits.

"When any economic undertaking is so monopolistic that it controls the life of the community, it should be owned by the people of the community," he said.

TOP OF THE LIST

Electric power is at the top of the list of things that should be under public control, he said.

Saskatchewan has purchased all its private electric companies and paid for them — the last one two months ago—and one by one has integrated them into a province-wide power network.

EVERYONE HAS IT

"We used the profits from power to take power to communities which couldn't otherwise get it. Today every town and village in Saskatchewan has electricity . . . when we took over there were 137 farms with electricity, now there are 60,000 farms with electricity, and by 1961 some 91 per cent will have electricity," he said.

Government car insurance costs from $30 a year for a modern car to $6 a year for a farm truck and is the cheapest insurance anywhere in North America.

MEDICAL PLAN

He said Saskatchewan will go ahead with its medical health scheme, with or without federal aid. He chided B.C. Health Minister Eric Martin for charging Saskatchewan with using the federal aid as a dodge.

"We think the federal government should pay half, but whether they pay anything or not, next year we will set up our own plan," said Mr. Douglas.

A per capita charge will be made to cover 25 or 30 per cent of the costs and the rest of the money will come from general revenue.

"Medical care will be carried on exactly as it is now, except that the bill will be sent to the medical care services instead of the patient," he said.

He took an indirect swipe at Premier Bennett, who often calls for federal aid on a project before B.C. will participate, when he said: "We are not going to hide behind the skirts of the federal government and make its inaction an excuse, as is being done by some people not very far away.

"How can we call this a Christian country when there is a price tag on health?" he asked.

LARGE PARCEL

Nanaimo CCF candidate Cameron referred to the diminutive premier when he introduced him thus:

"Here in B.C. we have a rather large parcel for a premier . . . and some people believe it contains an air mattress."

He assured the people in the front row "this premier is not going to throw books at you."

BY STRACHAN

Mr. Cameron appeared to dispel speculation that he would try to oust the party leadership from Robert Strachan when he referred to "the CCF government that will be headed by Robert Strachan after Sept. 12."

MONTREAL (CP) — Canadian National and Canadian Pacific telegraphs Wednesday announced an increase will go into effect today for messages to the U.S. Normal traffic rates will be raised by five or 10 cents for each 10 words.

Damaged Mercy Yacht Winning Battle in Pacific

HONOLULU (AP) — A 136-foot motor yacht with a four-year-old heart patient and 17 other persons aboard appeared Wednesday night to be winning a battle to stay afloat in the south Pacific.

The Wild Goose II — which earlier reported flooding from a gaping hole—told the Coast Guard it was "in no immediate danger" and was moving slowly toward Hawaii from a point 290 miles south of Honolulu.

A Coast Guard cutter expected to reach the yacht early today. A Coast Guard plane kept circling overhead.

More than five hours after the first distress call went out, an air-dropped pump checked flooding of the Wild Goose II. But water remained 10 feet deep in some compartments and pressure threatened the bulkheads.

The yacht, owned by Max Wyman, a Seattle lumberman, was homeward bound from Tahiti after halting a world tour for a mission of mercy. Wyman took on a four-year-old girl at Penrhyn, in the northern Cook Islands, who was in need of emergency heart surgery. He headed back for Honolulu and Seattle.

Building in Area Still Lags Behind

August was classed as a "fair month for building last night by Greater Victoria building inspectors.

Victoria city issued 614 permits during the month for construction valued at $662,259. The previous August it issued nine fewer permits, but the value totalled $768,000.

BOTH DOWN

The August permits brought this year's city totals to 4,224 permits and $5,400,000, compared with 4,494 permits and $5,900,000 in the first eight months of 1959.

In Saanich, level of home-construction was closer in August to last year's than it has been in recent months. The municipality issued 31 permits for houses this August, 38 in August of 1959.

PREVIOUS TOTALS

Total value of Saanich's 101 permits this August was $506,530, compared with 93 permits and $695,250 the previous August.

In the first eight months of this year, Saanich issued 592 permits for construction valued at $4,333,350, including 254 houses. In the similar period last year, 809 permits were issued for construction worth $6,366,429, including 451 dwellings.

Esquimalt issued 18 permits in August for construction valued at $43,900, bringing its totals for the year so far to 106 permits and $542,870.

In August, 1959, the municipality issued 17 permits for construction valued at $65,500, and the eight-month totals were 154 permits and $1,156,009.

Winter Work Ways Wanted

Organization of the Greater Victoria Winter Employment Committee was mapped out yesterday to help meet what could be one of the worst unemployment winters ever.

Under chairman David Wright, the committee discussed organizational matters, set up sub-committtes and planned ways to create more promotion of winter work.

More to Come

Entries Past 2,000 For Saanich Fair

Entries for the Saanich Fall Fair yesterday topped the 2,000 mark and fair secretary A. C. Howe said there were still hundreds more to be opened and listed.

A record year is anticipated by officials of the North and South Saanich Agricultural Society for the three-day exhibition, Sept. 3 to 5.

RECORD SEEN

They estimate an attendance of 15,000, up 5,000 from the previous record set in 1958.

The fair is the senior event in its class west of the Great Lakes and is in its 92nd year.

Saturday there will be a western horse show and Shorthorn beef cattle will be judged along with poultry, rabbits, grain grasses and seeds, field roots for stock and potatoes, vegetables, fruits, flowers, jams, jellies, household arts, honey and many more items.

FARMERETTES

A leading attraction Saturday will be 4-H work. The young farmers and farmerettes hold their own fair within the main event.

Junior horsemen and women take to their saddles in a double show Sunday. Both western and English saddle events are featured.

Livestock sections take the spotlight Monday as dairy and beef cattle, sheep, swine, goats and agricultural horses are judged.

DANCING BEGINS

The skirl of the pipes will echo over the fairgrounds as highland dancing begins in the morning.

In addition to this big entertainment bill, an English horse show for senior riders takes place in the afternoon.

With the co-operation of the weatherman this year's Saanich Fall Fair promises to be one of the best ever staged at Saanichton, officials say.

First Strike In 114 Years Halts Trains

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The Pennsylvania Railroad, the largest U.S. carrier of freight and passengers, was shut down yesterday for the first time in its 114-year history by a strike by 20,000 maintenance men.

The strike sidetracked nearly 1,600 trains that carry 136,000 passengers and move 118,000,000 ton-miles of freight daily over 10,000 miles of track in 13 states, serving as an economic lifeline to the car, steel and coal industry.

Nehru Backs Russia

Mao's Views On War Hit

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—Prime Minister Nehru Wednesday rapped Communist China for its stand on the inevitability of an East-West war.

His foreign policy speech to parliament was interpreted here as apparent support for Russia in its ideological rift with China.

The dispute arose over Chinese arguments that war must not be ruled out so long as there is imperialism in the world.

CO-EXISTENCE

Russia says it is possible to live in co-existence with the West, hoping for the spread of communism through peaceful means.

Nehru did not mention Russia or China directly but said:

"You cannot really believe in peaceful co-existence if you think that war is inevitable and that there is an inevitable conflict between different types of societies and systems."

He said that no ideology could ever be a final approach because "new things come in the way to change our minds."

Turning to the Congo, Nehru said India regards the Congo as a single entity.

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

A few weeks ago I told you about Lien, the lovely Indonesian girl who stayed at our house for the past year as an e xchange student. She left us at the end of June, went on a bus trip arranged by the American Field Service and was scheduled to leave for Indonesia from Idlewild airport in August.

Shortly before that date we had a phone call from a Mrs. H. (a name we'd never heard before). She explained that Lien was staying at her house on Long Island for those last few days and would like very much to say goodbye to us once more. So I set a date when we could come out to Long Island to take Lien to lunch. No, no, said Mrs. H. She insisted we must have lunch at her house, stay for the afternoon, then have dinner and meet her husband.

So, on a lovely day not long ago, my wife and I and four of our children drove out to Long Island and invaded the house of those complete strangers.

Old-Fashioned Air

Mrs. H. turned out to be a tall, handsome woman, and there were three pretty daughters, aged 9, 15 and 18. The house was a beautiful house with lots of room and a spacious, old-fashioned air about it.

They had fixed sandwiches for us — tuna fish, egg salad and cream cheese and jelly—and there was excellent coffee. And peaches for dessert.

In the afternoon we just sat around the house and chatted. The children got along very well with each other and had a marvellous time.

Toward evening Mr. H. returned from his office. He fixed drinks and then we all adjourned to a wonderful, old-fashioned side porch they had, where they did hamburgers and wienies on a charcoal burner. There was also sauerkraut and baked beans, and later a water melon.

Suddenly I realized that we'd spent seven solid hours at these nice people's house. So we collected the children and made our departure, thanking them all and kissing Lien goodbye before her long trip home to the other side of the world.

Nothing in Common

The next day I got to thinking about it all. There we were, spending seven hours with people whom we'd never seen before — people with whom we had, on the face of it, nothing in common except the chance link of our interest in a girl from Indonesia.

And yet, in this wonderful "open society" of ours, there we were, feeling perfectly at home with each other—chatting amiably for hours about children, dogs, cats, trips, furniture, interior decorating and television. Mrs. H. showed me some of her beautiful art work; one of her daughters was just starting to wear contact lenses and told us all about it; Mr. H. had some interesting things to say about the mail order business.

I've lived a large part of my life in Europe and have seen other parts of the world, and I know that nowhere else in the world would such a thing have been possible — a completely natural, perfectly harmonious day-long meeting between utter strangers.

It's a wonderful country . . . this United States.

Fight Reds? New Science

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Wednesday passed by voice vote and sent to the House of Representatives a bill to create a federal academy to teach anti-communism as a science. The new institution would be known as the "freedom academy." Its assigned task is to develop and teach techniques for use in the cold war, just as the service academies teach military techniques.

Rail Workers Unanimous, Accept Award

MONTREAL (UPI)—Representatives of Canada's 118,000 non-operating railway employees voted unanimously yesterday to accept a conciliation board report recommending a 14-cent-an-hour wage increase.

The 115 general conference chairmen — the union's' top policy-making body—also gave the joint negotiating committee power to take whatever action is deemed necessary in connection with the report. This included authority to call a strike vote if necessary if the railways refuse to accept the report.

Mother's Cheering Section

Reds Set $50,000 Ransom For Ontario Man's Son, 15

TORONTO (CP)—A wealthy Ontario fur farmer who fled his native Czechoslovakia when the Communists took over in 1948 said Wednesday the Czech government has asked $50,000 "ransom" for his son.

Bohumil Cejar, 60, who runs three Ontario nutria fur farms worth almost $500,000, said the offer was originally made last June through an intermediary in Montreal.

He said he was willing to pay the price for his 15-year-old son, Peter, but wanted some guarantee first that the Czech government would keep its end of the bargain.

Mr. Cejar said he has written to President Novotny of Czechoslovakia reporting the money demand and asking that his son be given an exit visa to leave Prague where he now is attending school and living with relatives.

Canadian Leadership

CANADA'S pertinacious campaign for world disarmament is beginning to receive solid support from all corners of the globe. The Canadian resolution before UNESCO Tuesday calling on all nations to work toward disarmament drew immediate and unanimous backing from fellow member nations.

Senator Donald Cameron, heading the Canadian delegation, presented the resolution as a follow-up to External Affairs Secretary Howard Green's memorable plea before the UN Disarmament Commission last month.

Canada's leadership in this move to solve what must be acknowledged as the gravest problem confronting the world at this time, will be a matter of pride to all Canadians. No little credit for the present government's stand must go to Mr. Green, whose stubborn adherence to priniciples he feels are right has been his greatest strength.

It has been openly acknowledged by a number of UN member nations that any move toward the speeding up of disarmament negotiations between the nuclear powers would have been shelved, perhaps indefinitely, if it had not been for Mr. Green's insistent demand on behalf of the peoples of the world that meetings be resumed without delay.

It is not certain when, or even if, the great powers will re-open their discussions. But it is certain that Mr. Green has caused them to re-appraise the situation which may well result in a change of heart and a change of mind.

An indication of this was given in the UNESCO adult education conference when Senator Cameron's resolution was enthusiastically greeted by the Russian delegation head, Soviet Vice-Minister of Education Mikhail Kachine, who said: ". . . the Soviet Union warmly supports the Canadian resolution, seeking in it a useful step toward disarmament and peace for mankind."

Speaking on behalf of Latin America, Mexico also supported the resolution. If these two spokesmen reflect the view of their respective spheres of influence—and there is no reason to believe they do not—they represent, along with Great Britain who has long been a stalwart champion of disarmament, a very substantial proportion of the world's population.

If the hope expressed in the words of Mexico's delegate— "Even if we do nothing else, the world has cause to remember this day"—is realized, then it can also be said that if Canada does nothing else, the world will have cause to remember her . . .

When the Price Is Too High

IT would be unjust and foolish to assert that labor and labor alone is responsible for Canada's economic difficulties and the consequent lowering of the employment level. There are faults on all sides, and industry with its profit margins and often top-heavy executive system cannot be absolved.

Yet the labor unions which have received much and are forever asking more, with no apparent regard for the nation's ability to compete in markets abroad, would do well to ponder the extent to which the high wage scales they have won are contributing to unemployment.

The do-it-yourself trend has been brought about more than anything else by the high price tradesmen place on their time. It is not a passing fad but an economic development set in motion by the germ of revolt. Some men—and women, too—make and mend things for the sake of something to do to fill increasing leisure time; but the great majority have joined the do-it-yourself movement for the simple reason that they can't afford not to.

Householders by the hundreds of thousands are doing today construction and repair jobs for which in earlier times it was customary to engage skilled tradesmen. The so-called white-collar class employs its spare time in activities which would have been regarded as demeaning not so many years ago.

The bearing this has on the unemployment situation can only be guessed at, but must be enormous. Every man who builds or adds to his house, paints it, repairs the roof, instals fittings, makes shelves and furniture, is doing tradesmen out of jobs. Thousands of union men are doing the same thing in their own spare time; and the only difference between that and the practice of moonlighting is that they are not doing it for wages.

Moreover, this do-it-yourself business is habit-forming. The more a man finds himself able to do in lines of work outside his own, the more he undertakes; until in time, if health and strength hold out, he may find it unnecessary to hire help for anything.

But along with those who enjoy working for themselves there are as many who would much rather pay someone else, yet cannot afford the hourly rates which the unions have won for their members. Just as too high prices for goods may kill retail trade, so too high a price for labor takes away jobs. To the tradesman who can't find employment there is little consolation in the knowledge that the pay would be good if he could.

Too Easy to Get In

NOT every student who graduates from a university is expected to be a genius, but before he enters he should have proved his capacity to benefit from higher learning. Otherwise an awful lot of money is being wasted.

Professor Birney of UBC affirms that one quarter of that institution's freshmen are semi-literate. As a teacher of English he naturally favors the humanities at the expense of the sciences, so literacy may to some extent be a matter of degree and preference.

The professor does present some disturbing examples, however. He said some freshmen described Winston Churchill as the author of "War and Peace," put Belgrade in Ireland and the Severn River in Russia, and thought Trotsky was a photographer. More startling, three per cent of them couldn't name the Canadian prime minister.

The latter is the more grevious fault. Any freshman who doesn't know who is the head of his country's government must go about with his eyes and ears shut. He doesn't deserve to be educated to higher levels if his unawareness of the world he is living in is so patent.

Professor Birney says that recent freshmen tests convince him there are educational weaknesses. That much seems obvious, and one of them seems to be that entry to UBC is too easy.

It is a fallacy, as well as a needless expenditure of public funds, to assume that university entry is the right of all students, whether or not their mental attainments fit them for the higher levels of education. People are not equal in the gifts bestowed upon them at birth.

Universities should be reserved for students who have the native ability to enrich themselves and society through the training and knowledge which a university education gives.

Crumbs of Victory

By HAROLD MORRISON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

THE United States put forth a mountain of effort to condemn Cuba before the bulk of Latin America. She reaped a victory of crumbs.

The San Jose declaration, praised by U.S. diplomatic leaders, is couched in such general terms that if offers nothing more than a moral rejection of Sino-Soviet infiltration into Latin affairs.

It contains no suggestion of punitive action if any of the 21 members of the Organization of American States encourages co-operation with the Russians or Chinese Reds. Nor does it specifically condemn Fidel Castro for having seized more than $750,000,000 worth of U.S. property in Cuba.

While U.S. State Secretary Christian Herter says the Costa Rica resolution signed by the Pan-American Union constitutes a "clear indictment of Cuba," the resolution is so ambiguous that Mexico's Foreign Minister Manuel Tello suggests that it in no way condemns Cuba.

The victory for the U.S., if any, perhaps, is in the possibility that the San Jose action may tend to sharpen differences between the Cuban regime and the rest of Latin America which may be helpful to the U.S. in increasing pressures on the Castro forces.

Castro and his lieutenants fought even this mild resolution with great emotion aimed at exploiting the traditional anti-U.S. feeling among the Latins. To a great extent he was successful, for the U.S. felt it prudent not to insist on a specific condemnation of Cuban actions.

But apparently it is inconceivable to Castro that the U.S. should get any sympathy at all. His delegation walked out of San Jose meeting of the Pan-American Union and he lashed out at his neighbors for selling out for "Yankee gold."

Such words may not enhance Cuban friendship in the Latin world.

Thinking Aloud

Gerald Waring

". . . of shoes—and ships—and sealing wax—of cabbages and kings."

By TOM TAYLOR

THERE is nothing like looking at a map to clarify one's mind, or at least to set one's geographical perspective in order. For the past half-hour I have been gazing at an up-to-date layout of the vast continent we were wont to call Darkest Africa, either because of the black skins of many of its inhabitants—some are only brown, near-shading to white, you know—or because of Livingstone and Stanley. These two met in a jungle, or such-like place, and the impression of outsiders was that it was amid encircling gloom.

Africa I do not know but I pretend to myself to have some kinship because of a year or two spent in its northwest corner long ago when ridding its fringes of the "tyranny of the infidel Turk," as a flowery signal message from a rhetorical corps commander expressed it. Those were days of innocence; one has come since to realize that all the world's infidels were not in Turkey, then or now.

That was in the land of the Pharoahs and points east now known as the United Arab Republic. I nearly had another affinity. Not long before I came to Canada I toyed with acceptance of a job somewhere on the Gold Coast, now known variously as Ghana, Togo, Dahomey and other captivating titles. One virtue of current African troubles is that it enlarges one's vocabulary of placenames. I did not go to the Gold Coast, although had I done so perhaps I'd know more about the problems vexing the Dark Continent. On the other hand I would not be looking at this map as I am doing now and passing along these fleeting words.

* * *

And that, while perhaps not yours, would certainly be my loss. I am undoubtedly more comfortably situated in Victoria than, say, in Ghana, where I understand journalists must mind their Ps and Qs lest Mr. Nkrumah be annoyed.

Unless my arithmetic is faulty I count 49 separate states or countries in the vast complex known as Africa; some independent, some nearly so, some on the way but farther off, and some in the care of the UN. They are a mixture, posing as great a problem of co-operation and assimilation as ever the world has known. Brown, black and white; these are the hues, and paraphrasing Kipling and his East and West never a twain shall meet. Not at the moment in the Congo, anyway, where the infidels, allegedly but not necessarily so, are those who wear a white skin.

But my scrutiny of the African map is geographical, not political, although I would judge that the creation of a United States of Africa, voiced by aspirants to its presidency no doubt, may be expected as soon as the millenium, which puttting it modestly seems at least 1,000 years away yet. After the atomic piles have been destroyed and armaments consist only of walking sticks. Herald such a day nevertheless.

Looking at Africa from the safe distance of Victoria and the academic attitude of a map-reader, however, the Dark Continent is as full of fascination as its big-game preserves are full of animals. It is splendid, spectacular, replete with rolling sounds like Tanganyika, Nigeria, Angola, and abrupt stops like Chad, Gaboon and, of course, Congo. It is romantic, mysterious, historic, inducing a desire to probe its black magic as once did the explorers of old.

Until, that is, one reads the headlines on the front page. Then somehow a lot of the magic disappears.

Reports from Ottawa

THERE was nearly a riot in Ottawa the other night because a new housing development is being planned in accord with recommendations of the recent "royal commission" on housing.

Robert Campeau, a young man still in his thirities who is reputedly Canada's biggest private operator in the housing industry, wants to develop a choice parcel of suburban farm land into a complete neighborhood of single family dwellings, high rise apartment houses, and shopping centres.

His proposal, which required a change in the city zoning laws to permit apartments in the area, is on all fours with one of the strongest recommendations of the committee of architects that conducted a public inquiry last winter into the urban environment.

The architects reported glowingly that "The vision of great new city areas can be held to offer blends of efficient flats for working couples, houses with space on the ground for those who are rearing children, and simple central cottages for active senior members of the community . . . Every possible measure should be taken to encourage diversity . . . in size and nature, and mixture of several types in each new urban area . . ."

* * *

The only thing wrong with Campeau's plan, it seems, is that the people who already live in the neighborhood abhor it. Emerging from their ranch-types and split-levels behind well-watered, close-cropped verdure, they have organized a property owners' association to fight Campeau.

Campeau met them. They shouted and booed as he explained that land servicing costs would be prohibitive for a bungalow development. But by spotting several apartments among single family residences, each apartment housing nearly 600 persons, Campeau will be able to split the costs of the land servicing among 2,000 families rather than among 500.

He might have pointed out that of the million dwellings built in the 1950s, 700,000 were detached single houses—repetitive, monotonous, often poorly designed. He might also have pointed out the staggering social cost of this open order of urban advance—in unproductive hours of travel and transportation, in municipal services, and in human isolation.

* * *

This dictum of the housing inquiry is likely to arouse similar reaction in other cities, because however logical, it offends something basic in the soul of the Anglo-Saxon. Single family homes fill the ancient longing for the privacy of a bit of ground of one's own, with an ivy-covered cottage thereon.

A mixed neighborhood such as the architects and Campeau propose may raise aesthetic, social and sociological hostilities among the dream house owners. Apartment houses may become "those frightful things," and their inhabitants a second-rate citizenry. A wall with 200 windows overlooking one's garden not only spoils the view; it has distressing effects on human personality and relationships.

On economic grounds I agree with the architects and Campeau, but my sympathies are with the property owners. It is the latter who pay the extra cost in time, taxes and isolation for their chosen way of living. And to rezone their area to permit apartments seems to me to be nothing less than breach of contract by the civic authorities for which there is no legal redress.

Mr. Louw Confused

(From The Lethbridge Herald)

MR. ERIC LOUW, South Africa's external affairs minister, is telling his coutrymen that should the Commonwealth refuse a republican South Africa's application for membership it would mean "that the Commonwealth conferences had decided to interfere in the domestic affairs of a fellow member". Such "interference," he added, "would inevitably lead . . . to the breakup of the Commonwealth."

Clearly, Mr. Louw's understanding of the Commonwealth differs from that generally held of a group of nations bound together partly by their common background as British colonies, partly by mutual economic interest, but mainly by a common adherence to certain basic political and judicial traditions. The Commonwealth could accommodate itself to South African republicanism, as it has to Indian and Pakistani republicanism. It cannot accommodate itself to South Africa's apartheidism.

If South Africa is refused "readmission" in the event that it votes to become a republic on October 5 the explanation will be that the referendum has provided the Commonwealth with an excuse, not for interfering in South Africa's domestic affairs, but for ridding itself of a member whose persistent violation of the "club's" code might well jeopardize the entire organization.

Dedicated Madmen

By GREGORY CLARK

WHAT prevented the rise of the Communists in all their ruthless devotion? Nothing.

What prevented the rise of the Nazis for 20 bloodshot years? Nothing.

Then what is to prevent the rise of another elite activated by the belief that the world is doomed, and they must therefore band together in iron secrecy to assure their survival; and having assured that, proceed to blow the rest of the world up?

To the sort of minds from which Communism and Fascism arise, the mass of mankind is trash. The purpose of such parties as theirs is to give power into the hands of an elite, known as the party, to have dominion over all people, their own as well as the lesser breeds everywhere, to whom the attitude is that of the 18th century slave-owners: a proletariat, faceless, rigid, without personality, cattle.

There are doubtless dedicated madmen right now in various parts of the earth who see no hope for the furiously multiplying human race. How do we guard against them getting together, scientists, philosophers and visionaries, to erect a new Fascism consisting of super-shelters, a sufficiency of nuclear explosives—and then the remodelled and rearranged earth, sublime, and all to themselves?

How Much Achieved?

By MARQUIS CHILDS

WASHINGTON — Displayed in Nixon campaign headquarters opening up across the country is a big poster reproducting photographs of the vice-president on his foreign trips.

In the centre is the famous picture showing Nixon pointing his finger at Premier Khrushchev, his jaw taunt in determined emphasis, during their "kitchen cabinet debate." In one corner is a picture of the vice-president with the Queen of England in a magnificient ball gown at a state dinner at Buckingham Palace. Another picture shows him arguing furiously with a crowd of Venezuelan students on his Latin-American tour two years ago.

This is the billboard that advertises the Nixon claim to experience in resolving the difficult and dangerous problems of foreign policy. It is the base of his principal appeal to the voters this fall.

* * *

But if there is to be serious discussion in this campaign of the real nature of leadership, of the whole approach to foreign policy in a revolutionary era, then this claim should be challenged. It is what Senator Kennedy began to do in his Alexandria, Va., speech attacking the vice-president's record of "experience."

What the Nixon billboard advertises is the personal diplomacy on which the Eisenhower administration has relied so heavily. In the first phase it was the personal diplomacy of the late John Foster Dulles who spent a large portion of his six and half years as secretary of state travelling to the far corners of the globe. During this time the State Department as an apparatus for planning and executing policy was deteriorating. In the latter phase President Eisenhower has assumed the role of goodwill crusader and his vice-president has flown on four goodwill missions.

* * *

The polemics of the campaign to one side, the present moment with threats to America's security blazing up in a half-dozen different places suggests the need for a realistic examination of the value of the personal diplomacy of both the president and the vice-president. Into it both men have put a great deal of sincere effort but the inevitable question is whether it has produced results beyond personal acclaim.

Just a year ago President Eisenhower was in Paris on a goodwill tour of Europe. Those of us who were with him will never forget the reception accorded him on that beautiful day in that beautiful city. In the seclusion of the presidential palace at Rambouillet he sat down with President de Gaulle, and at the end of their meeting one of those sweetness and light communiques was issued assuring the world that all was well.

But virtually no progress had been made in resolving the important differences between France, the geographical centre of NATO, and the United States, and little has been done since. De Gaulle has not been given the help he sought in nuclear development. American planes are still denied the use of French bases. The three Western European powers, France, Germany and England, are coming together on their own with the apparent purpose of forming a force that will not be dependent on American policy or the lack of it. With the failure of de Gaulle's tentative effort to end the Algerian war, his position at 69 is deteriorating and what comes after is a highly doubtful question mark.

* * *

When Nixon was stoned and spat at in Latin America in the spring of 1958 he returned to Washington for a hero's welcome. But if in the face of what he encountered he made recommendations on how to meet the growing hostility to the United States, there is no evidence that such recommendations were acted upon.

Secretary of State Christian Herter is currently trying to put out, or at any rate to confine, the blaze in Cuba. One resource he is using is a proposed co-operative aid plan for Latin America. But if this had come two years ago, or three or four years ago, the secretary would not today be finding it so hard to hold the other Americas to a unified position on Castro and Cuba.

* * *

If he were not counting so heavily on his identification with Eisenhower, the vice president might say that his recommendations were ignored, if in fact they were. The president made it quite clear that the decisions are his and his alone regardless of what anyone may recommend. There were reports after Nixon's Latin-American trip that he would propose a series of sweeping changes.

Perhaps as the campaign develops Nixon will give us his specifics for the menacing threat to America in Africa, Asia and Latin America. But the billboard is meant to convey the message that just by going to those distant places and talking up to Khrushchev and the others a great deal has been accomplished. While it may have been part of the vice-president's education what it achieved for American policy is open to serious question.

Letters to the Editor

Buy Canadian

The gravity of the employment situation should occupy much of our political thinking these days.

I wonder if it is generally realized that by each and all of us making a personal effort to buy not less than one quarter of our requirements from firms who manufacture in Canada, and our food from Canadian farms, how quickly this would rectify our employment situation.

Let us always remember every time we buy abroad we jeopardize a Canadian's job.

F. R. JEFFS.

Hoover Dam

With reference to a small item on page 3 of the Colonist of Aug. 28: The Hoover Dam was originally named the Hoover Dam and would have remained as such had not President Roosevelt—caused President Hoover's name to be removed and that of Boulder Dam given to it.

When Roosevelt was replaced the name of Hoover was rightfully returned to the dam.

A. M. ROGERS.

Self-Discipline Lacking

The letter by Mr. Ullman regarding crimes due to TV and magazines is too true. Many people do not carry through their lives self-discipline, which is one cause.

The police do their duty very well indeed in solving cases, but the federal government reprieves murderers on most cases for life, who after 10 or 15 years are again free. Our institutions are getting full up with such people who are somewhat wrong in the head.

TOM A. HUGHES.

1223 Oxford Street.

Socialism No Cure

Much has been brought to light and many promises made during our present B.C. political campaign. However, some human element has been greatly overlooked.

One's happiness comes from the heart; not from material goods but from making the most of what we have. We've all seen happy Social Crediters, Liberals and Conservatives but tell me, has anyone ever seen a happy socialist?

If anyone can make two dollars from an investment where I only make one, all the best to them. If our employers are making profits our jobs are more secure. In many instances, our personal greed has made us discontented and the dollar could become a bad master.

Socialism will not cure the greed of human nature. We live in the best country in this universe. Let us keep it that way.

C. R. SPELLER.

Always Knocking

According to statements carried in the Colonist, Mr. Deane Finlayson, head of the Conservative party, would if elected cancel all the province's dealings with Wenner-Gren. Now, I am no supporter of Mr. Wenner-Gren, nor am I believer in gifts to anyone. However, I think Mr. Finlayson's remarks are ill-considered.

If Mr. Finlayson would cancel Wenner-Gren agreements, as he says he would, then what will he replace them with? Does he have another financial group that will come in and develop the mighty Peace River? No, he doesn't say anything about that. What would he do? Leave the Peace River dormant as it has been through all British Columbia's history?

It seems to me that the Conservatives, the Liberals and the CCF too, have had many years in which to recognize the potential of this vast mountain river. Not one of them ever said a word about power potential on the Peace. I would venture to say that they did not even know it existed until Wenner-Gren and or his associates spent millions of dollars studying it and assessing its potential.

Instead of always knocking, why can't Mr. Finlayson suggest a way for the development of the Peace without cancelling agreements—without delaying the work of developing this mighty river which is so needed at this time.

Kids Came First

Husband Defends Dead Child's Mother

PEARSBURG, Va. (UPI) — Mary Elizabeth Giles and her husband John could not live together and "couldn't seem to stay apart." Each was sure of only one thing—they loved their four children.

Their domestic arguments became so furious the petite Mrs. Giles, 29, filed for divorce last year. She told a close friend she "really hated" to do it because "the kids love their daddy so much."

She said one other thing that stuck in the mind of county sheriff John Hopkins: "Before she would see her husband get the kids she would kill them."

Yesterday, Mrs. Giles and her husband attended funeral services for two-year-old Terry Giles. Armed guards stood beside Mrs. Giles. She has been charged with murder, and police say she fed arsenic to the children with breakfast Monday.

★ ★ ★

"They'll never make me believe it was murder," her husband said. "She loved them too much. She needs to be in a hospital. She has been despondent for some time."

An autopsy showed Terry's stomach was "full of arsenic." Sandra Sue, 10, John Russell, 9, and Teresa Ann, 5, were recovering.

Police said the two older children became ill last January "with some sort of poisoning and the identical symptoms they have now."

Women Strikers Win Sympathy Of Prince Philip

LONDON (CP) — Prince Philip's first try at settling a labor dispute seems to have been successful.

Thirty-two women clerks employed by the Automobile Association had been fired from the Birmingham office because they went on strike for more pay and shorter hours.

APPEAL FOR HELP

The girls wrote to Philip, who is president of the association, appealing for help.

The result was a letter from the prince to Miss Anne Godwin, general secretary of the Clerical and Administrative Workers' Union, which backed the strikers.

Another letter went to Viscount Brantford, chairman of the AA.

AGREED TO TALK

While Buckingham Palace denied that Prince Philip was intervening on anyone's behalf, the AA, which has refused for two weeks to talk with union representatives, finally agreed to negotiate.

One leading employers' spokesman called it all "very, very surprising."

HIGHLY UNUSUAL

"It will be regarded as highly unusual by all employers," he added.

The Daily Mirror complains: "Prince Philip has undoubted talent for public service. But that does not qualify him to dabble in industrial arbitration.

"And his place in the royal family must disbar him from even contemplating the idea."

Canada 'Going Overboard' On Atom Power Research

VANCOUVER (CP) — The possibility that Canada, a country with a power surplus, is "going overboard" on nuclear power research was laid before delegates to the National Federation of Canadian University Students Wednesday.

Dr. John Davis, B.C. Electric director of research and planning, said: "Maybe we're putting too many eggs in one basket.

"I am tempted to take a hard look at Canada's largest single program of research and development—that aimed at the generation of nuclear power.

"It has been under way for more than a decade. And it is being carried out on a scale comparable with the privately financed industrial research in the country.

"If Canada has a world beater in the heavy water moderated, natural uranium fueled reactor, so much the better. Yet the vast size and specialized nature of this program makes me feel uncomfortable."

FAR MORE

Dr. Davis said $41,000,000 was being spent on atomic research this year to bring the total to $250,000,000, "far more than the government spends on education."

Prospect of benefits equal to the great cost is low, he said.

"The introduction of really low-cost nuclear power would have its regional advantages and disadvantages. Southern Ontario would undoubtedly be better off, but provinces like B.C. and Quebec, still rich in hydro resources, would suffer.

NO INCENTIVE

"Fewer power industries would have incentive to come to Canada. Industries would locate closer to their markets —closer to the world's present centres of population and industry."

Canada is spending at least twice as much per capita on atomic energy development as was the U.S., he said, urging more general Canadian research work.

SPENDS LITTLE

As one of the world's most prosperous nations, he said, Canada spends relatively little on industrial research and development. Percentage contributions are small compared to Britain and the U.S.

A major underlying factor was that many industries were branches of foreign-owned firms, which did their research in head offices.

Boy 'Lifts' Village Bell

WARDNER, Idaho (AP) —Officials aren't taking any more chances with the one-ton Wardner fire bell. They're keeping it locked up until it can be installed in the new village hall.

When a boy about six asked if he could have the bell, then in a vacant lot, officials jokingly replied: "Sure if you can carry it away.

Yesterday, breathless officials had to overtake a truck of a junk dealer who was hauling the bell away. He had just bought the bell from a small boy.

Linked to Spies

U.S. Defector Red Adviser

WASHINGTON (AP)—The state department says Maurice Halperin, a former U.S. government official linked by Senate investigators to Soviet espionage activities, apparently is serving as a Latin American adviser to the Russians.

Halperin was head of the Latin-American division of the Office of Strategic Services during the latter part of the Second World War and later an associate professor at Boston University.

REFUSED ANSWER

In 1954 he was dismissed by Boston University after Senate investigators received testimony linking him to a Soviet spy ring and he refused to answer a question as to whether he was a Communist.

Latest information on Halperin is in a state department report on persons to whom it has been compelled to issue passports under a 1958 decision of the Supreme Court.

The court held the department lacks authority to deny passports because of political beliefs.

After the court's ruling, Halperin applied for a passport at the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City, where he had gone after being dismissed by Boston University, and used it to leave Mexico Oct. 13, 1958.

The state department said that shortly after Halperin and his wife left Mexico it received information he was employed in Moscow by Russia.

Not B.C. Ferries

Criticized Saanich Sign Belongs to Black Ball

The ferry sign which came in for criticism from Saanich land and planning committee this week doesn't, as was previously reported, refer to the new provincial ferry system.

B.C. ferry manager Monty Aldous said yesterday he wished to make this point clear "because we don't want anything to aggravate the great hullabaloo that has already been made over our signs."

The sign in question, which according to municipal planner Tony Parr cannot possibly qualify under the new Saanich sign regulation, is a rooftop billboard at 3596 Douglas for Black Ball Ferries.

Britain's radiochemical centre at Amersham near London has shipped 35,000 consignments of isotopes, valued at more than £1,000,000, to fill world-wide orders for medical, industrial and research purposes.

"We like Social Credit Government . . . and I'll tell you why"

"British Columbia is the greatest place in the world for modern living. We feel our Social Credit government is providing facilities that enable more people to enjoy it all. Children in B.C. are assured of the best possible education — right up to special financial assistance for many students attending U.B.C. The hospital insurance scheme here is the most efficient anywhere. And the $50 homeowner grant is unique — B.C.'s the only place in the world where the government helps people pay municipal and city taxes on their homes. Another thing young families appreciate is the Social Credit government's interest in and development of recreational facilities — campsites, marinas and historical sites . . . and the marvelous new roads that take you there. Yes, there's lots of good reasons for good living in British Columbia — and one of the best is Social Credit government."

We who make whisky say:

DRINKING AND DRIVING DO NOT MIX

Fine whisky is a luxury and should be treated as such. And, knowing when to say "no" plays a great part in the art of sensible living.

Neither whisky nor any other alcoholic beverage has any place at the wheel of an automobile. Drinking and driving do not mix.

This conviction must be shared by every thinking person who drives a car, particularly this Labour Day week-end when many holidaying families will be travelling on British Columbia highways.

If you expect to be at the wheel of a car this week-end, we say to you: Think before you drink. Don't drink before you drive.

Traffic Plan Coming Next

A special meeting of city council public works committee will be called to deal only with recommendations on a new sign by-law, the committee has decided.

The committee will take into consideration the representations made at a recent public hearing by sign company representatives and, on the other side, planners and the retail merchants' group of the Chamber of Commerce.

SECOND SESSION

Another special meeting will be held Sept. 7 to discuss a long-range traffic plan for the city.

B.C. Electric representatives and the city police commission will be invited to attend this meeting.

GUIDE PLAN

The plan to be submitted by the city engineer will, if adopted by council, serve as a guide in traffic planning. It will include designation of some streets as future one-way thoroughfares.

New Bylaw To Regulate Boat Berths

Public works committee will recommend to city council two modifications in a proposed by-law to regulate berthing of boats at the Inner Harbor yacht floats.

In its original form, the draft bylaw would have barred boats more than 40 feet long and would have required that owners register at the publicity bureau within an hour of berthing.

The committee has decided to recommend that boats up to 50 feet long be allowed to tie up and that 48 hours be allowed for registration.

Failures Shake Banff

Playtown Schools Crack Down

Rules Fight Pleasure

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — Students in this "playtown of the Rockies" face a new regime during the coming term.

The stiffer approach to schooling came after results of the Grade 12 departmental examinations—compiled by the provincial department of education—were published.

Only three of the 57 students who took the examination matriculated.

The Banff school board, in laying down the new set of rules quoted the probable reasons for the high failure degree as they were given by people in the town.

Said one: "The children are permeated by the 'tourist atmosphere.' This atmosphere is mainly one of pleasure. They are subjected to it summer and . . . winter."

Upon opinions such as these, the school board drew up new student regulations. They include:

No smoking in the school or on the school grounds.

Students may not leave the grounds during school hours without permission.

Disobedience can result in temporary suspension or permanent expulsion.

Students with a standing of lower than B-plus will not be allowed to take part in any extra-curricular activity.

Students who do not put forth efforts will be dealt with severely, with methods which will be "known at once in instances where they must be applied."

Manner of dress for both boys and girls is laid out in the school board program. Among those things banned are studded leather jackets and ski pants in the classroom.

Bering Island Link to Asia?

VANCOUVER (CP) — A University of British Columbia scientist who spent his summer near the northwest tip of North America says he has found new evidence for a theory that Asia once was linked to North America—the discovery of a freshwater fish on a barren island in the Bering Sea.

Dr. Lindsey, associate professor of zoology and curator of fish at the university, said the fish could only have reached remote St. Lawrence Island through fresh water channels of a land bridge.

Turnbull Ends Career

By IAN STREET

University professors who complain of educational weaknesses in the high school system are living in the past, according to Alex Turnbull, who retired yesterday as assistant district superintendent of Greater Victoria schools.

He was asked to comment on statements by Prof. Earle Birney that a recent test showed one quarter of UBC's freshmen were "semi-literate."

40-YEAR CAREER

Mr. Turnbull, who ends a career of 40 years in education in B.C., replied that Mr. Birney must be basing his judgment on the period now gone when "barely five and perhaps three per cent" of high school students went on to university.

"Now up to 60 per cent of students are going past Grade 12 and there is bound to be some spread in ability," he said. "Those fellows (in universities) have just got to adapt to handle it."

HOLD THEIR OWN

Mr. Turnbull said today people expect their youngsters in most cases to go on to university and added that the best students turned out by the present high school system "will hold their own with any generation."

He said that, looking back over a long career as teacher, principal, and for the past 20 years inspector of schools, he saw "steady growth and great changes at all levels" in the educational system.

BETTER CONDITIONS

Teaching in B.C. schools had also "improved steadily" with a better chance for training and better working conditions bringing signs of stability to the profession after "some pretty rough going" in the early post-war years.

Referring indirectly to juvenile delinquency, Mr. Turnbull said: "I have faith in the young people of today. I can appreciate what the almost vicious criticism that comes from adults can do to them.

WHAT'S THE USE

"It's bound to wear on youngsters so that eventually some feel 'what is the use . . .'

"We hear more of the minority . . . but I would like to speak for the great majority who are just as fine a group of young boys and girls as we have ever had in our schools and are doing a great job."

SEVEN YEARS HERE

Mr. Turnbull taught for many years in New Westminster before joining the department of education as an inspector. He worked in this capacity out of Prince Rupert, Revelstoke, Chilliwack and Penticton before coming to Victoria seven years ago.

"It's been a good life and a rewarding one," he said. "I wouldn't change anything."

Plotting Stage

Third School Bylaw Rural Saanich Plan

An intensive study of ways to present a new school building bylaw was launched by officials of rural Saanich District 63 school board this week. Two earlier bylaws were defeated.

Bylaws presented in December ($299,000) and again in February ($310,000) went down to defeat, each time by a narrow margin.

Shift system, made necessary by overcrowding in junior high schools in the area, goes into effect this term. School officials blame defeat of the bylaws for creating congested conditions.

Trustee chairman James Helps said the board is in the process of plotting the bylaw at the moment. "It is still in the talking stage," he said.

The chairman said the bylaw may have to be completely revamped—"there is no sense in starting in where we left off last time."

In "The Misfits," filmed on location in Reno, Thelma Ritter portrays Marilyn Monroe's good natured and alcoholically inclined friend, a type of role she has done many times before.

The story calls for her to fall during a binge and sprain an arm so that she goes through the picture wearing a cast braced with steel ribs.

The first day in her cast went fine. But at quitting time Thelma couldn't get it off. Neither could her hairdresser, the assistant director nor the prop man. Finally a Reno physician was called in. He removed the cast, but Thelma emerged shaken from her experience and friction burns covered her arm.

After that she wore a much simplified version. "From now on," she informed Marilyn, "if there's any steel involved in scenes with you, it's going to be spelled s-t-e-a-l."

Saskatchewan Land Tax Lifted

CCF Hikes Hospital Rates

* * * * * *

'Honeymoon Over'—Liberals

REGINA (CP)—The Saskatchewan government announced Wednesday an increase in hospital insurance rates for 1961.

The increase, to $24 from $17 for a single person and to $48 from $35 for a family group, drew wrath of D. G. Steuart, president of the provincial Liberal association.

"Obviously the honeymoon is over," Mr. Steuart said. "The CCF government must have known that hospital tax rates would have to be increased, but they hid it from the public until after the June 8 election."

Health Minister J. W. Erb said the increase is necessary to cover the increased cost of maintaining and operating provincial hospitals and to provide funds for hospital construction.

He said $4 of the single increase and $8 of the family increase is earmarked for construction of hospital facilities.

The rate increase is not connected with the proposed compulsory prepaid medical plan offered in the election campaign by the CCF. It will supplement the existing plan.

The existing compulsory plan, covering all hospital services, cost a record $31,809,000 in 1959—five times more than in 1949.

Mr. Steuart said: "This is just a foretaste of what will happen to taxes when the provincial government forces socialized medicine on the people of the province."

In Nanaimo, Premier Douglas said the sharp increase in hospital insurance rates will coincide with the lifting of land hospital taxes.

He said effective immediately the government will absorb all capital and current debt costs of provincial hospitals.

"People will be paying this much more for hospital taxes," he said. "But their land taxes will be reduced proprotionately."

But the Saskatchewan Hospital Association and the Catholic Hospital Conference of Saskatchewan were strongly critical of the new formula.

They said their counter-proposals were completely rejected.

Jerome Sprints to Semi-Finals

By JACK SULLIVAN

ROME (CP)—Harry Jerome streaked to two heat victories Wednesday in the 100-metre sprint as the glittering track and field show of the Olympic Games opened with record-smashing led by the United States and Russia.

Filmed coverage of the Games may be seen on television tonight at 7.30 on channels 7, 11, and 12 and 11.30 on channels 2, 6, 7, 11 and 12.

Canada's crack speedster from Vancouver, co-holder of the world record of 10 seconds for the century dash, easily qualified for today's semi-final but saw his German arch-rival break the Olympic record in snatching a heat.

Armin Hary, who ran the 100 metres in 10 seconds a month before Jerome did this summer, breezed to an easy win in the first preliminary heat and on his next time out clipped off a 10.2 sprint.

The mark broke the Olympic record of 10.3 first made by Eddie Tolan of the United States in 1932 and since equalled by four other Americans.

Jerome wasn't extended to take his first heat in 10.5. On his next trip down the straight-away before a crowd of 60,000, the 19-year-old Vancouver boy leaned into the tape to beat out Peter Redford of Britain, A. Seye of France and S. Antao of Kenya in a blanket finish. All four were clocked in 10.4 seconds. Although Seye was given the same time as Jerome and the others, he was eliminated because the judges placed him fourth.

Going into the semi-finals today will be a classy American triumvirate of Ray Norton, Dave Sime and Frank Budd—all of whom qualified handily Wednesday.

Two other Canadians—Lynn Eves of Victoria and George Short of Saskatoon—failed to qualify in the sprint.

SETS SHOT PUT MARK

The old shot put record was riddled as the United States grabbed all three medals.

Bill Nieder, an army lieutenant, won the gold medal with a mighty toss of 19.68 metres—64 feet, 6¾ inches. Defending champion Parry O'Brien bettered his 1956 record of 18.57 metres with a throw of 19.11 and Dallas Long got into the record-breaking act with 19.1.

Vera Krepinka of Russia won the women's broad jump with a record leap of 6.37 metres—20 feet, 10¾ inches—breaking the 1956 mark of 6.35 metres made by E. Krzeskinska of Poland, who was second with 6.27 metres.

Irina Press first equalled and then broke the record for the women's 80-metre hurdles. The old mark was 10.7 made in 1956 by Australia's Shirley Strickland de la Hunty. The Russian girl cut it to 10.6 in winning a semi-final.

Gordon (Puff Puff) Pirie, Britain's great distance man, was a surprise elimination. He was joined by Bill Dellinger and Bob Soth of the U.S., and no Americans were left.

Doug Kyle of Calgary also failed to qualify in the 5,000 metres, placing seventh in his heat.

IT BEATS ME

By Jim Tang

It could just be the lull before the storm but if things keep on going the way they have been in Rome the first thing you know the athletes will start thinking that the Olympic Games really belong to them . . . there have been some rumblings over officiating in basketball and boxing, a suggestion that the British distaff team included a competing male and mild charges about the use of stimulants but so far the only real anguished yelp has come from the United States . . . there is reason to believe that swimmer Lance Larson did win the 100-metres freestyle but the noise which followed the awarding of the gold medal to Australian brought sympathy only in the United States . . . television coverage of the Games has been on the skimpy side and tends to concentrate on U.S. athletes but it has been spoiled most of all by the amount and the calibre of the between-scenes commentating. There are more interruptions than there are on the Jack Paar show . . . one couldn't help thrilling at the Russian victories in the ladies' singles and doubles kayak canoe races. The only U.S. answer to that would seem to be the inclusion of gin rummy . . . and why not add horseshoe pitching and Go-Kart racing? It makes as much sense . . . Canada never did have any hope of more than two gold medals and all but forgotten is the enthusiastic claim of the team manager that we could win as many as seven . . . Russia will again win the unofficial team title but a breakdown will show that without such events as ladies' kayak canoe racing and gymnastics the USSR would likely be no better than third . . . a breakdown would also show that its fine colored athletes will account for a high percentage of points won by the American team . . . and don't count out the team officials just yet. Rome is an interesting city and they could just be late in starting their usual monopolization of the headlines . . .

NAMES IN THE NEWS: Rumor has it that the 1961 coach for Victoria Shamrocks—they're still that to most—might be George Andrews. And that just might be a fine choice . . . another report has it that Gar Taylor may head up men's city softball, which is in a somewhat dizzy state after a rather silly season . . . George Gibson of this department passed out the cigars twice this week—on Monday for the arrival of his first heir and yesterday for the 41-pound tyee he caught at Port Alberni. It isn't fair to ask him which was the bigger thrill . . . word has just been received that Tom Hamilton almost won a prize for what was thought to be an entertaining new dance during the PNE parade in Vancouver. I'm happy to pass on the news that the turpentine rash has healed and, this being an election year, has has an excellent chance of not having to pay for the new suit he unexpectedly had to buy . . . Art Ngai won the men's closed singles at the PNE table tennis tournament, then teamed with brother Ed to win the open men's doubles. Art's opponent in the singles final, incidentally, was Joy Owens, former Irish ladies' champion, who almost made them wish she hadn't been allowed to enter the men's event.

This may have been the last year for the Canadian lawn bowling championships unless a new sponsor is found. Reports have it that the current sponsor, a distillery, has lost interest because of fewer than expected entries on the provincial level . . . Doug Jones, who landed only one good punch last night in knocking out Bobo Olson, has been a busy young light-heavyweight. A pro for only 18 months, last night's was his 16th fight. Off what he showed, only his age (24), is in his favor. He can wait for Archie Moore to reach 60 . . . they were buzzing at Longacre the other day when a horse named Twelve Ten won and—you guessed it—paid $12.10 . . . loss of Ed Macon, Eddie Bevan and Harry Lampman from their defensive unit is probably the big reason Hamilton Tiger-Cats are off to such a poor start in defence of their Big Four football championship . . . Lou Rymkus, coach of the Houston Oilers of the American Football League, says a perfect quarterback would have the cockiness of Frankie Albert, the coolness of Otto Graham, the faking ability of Bob Waterfield, the arm of Sammy Baugh, the leadership qualities of Angelo Bertelli and the competitive spirit of Tobin Rote . . . most professional football clubs are especially eager to get Georgia Tech graduates. It seems that they thing the coaching of Bobby Dodd makes his players ready to step into pro lineups . . . Cheney Studs, who played here seven times against Victoria Pages this summer, won four in a row last week to qualify for district playdowns in the American Baseball Congress tournament for the North American semi-pro championship. Pages can take a bow for their 3-4 record against the powerful Seattle club.

UBC Crew Defeats U.S. Reaches Rowing Finals

By ED SIMON

CASTEL GANDOLFO (CP) — The University of British Columbia eight-oared crew stroked its way into the final of the Olympic competition Wednesday with a one-length victory over a highly-touted United States Naval Academy eight.

UBC, silver medalists in the 1956 games at Melbourne, led from the start, but had to fight in the last 200 yards to preserve their margin of victory.

Canada, Germany and Czechoslovakia were the heat winners, all going into the finals Saturday. The losers get a second chance in the repechages today, with the three winners also qualifying for the finals.

BEST TIME

UBC had the best time of the day over the 2,000-metre (one-mile, 427-yard) course — six minutes and 2.18 seconds. It was the best Olympic time since 1928.

The high-stroking Germans whipped Britain by nearly two lengths in 6.03.34 while Czechoslovakia won by a length over Austria in 6.03.34.

The Canadian oarsmen had as their target the ending of the long American reign in the premier rowing event. Yankee crews have won eight straight times since 1920. In 1956, Yale fought back in the repechages to gain the finals and win the gold medal.

Only one member of the 1956 UBC crew is on this year's crew—Bill McKerlich of Vancouver (No. 6). The other members are Don Arnold (stroke) Winfield, B.C.; Walter d'Hondt (No. 7) Vancouver; Nelson Kuhn (No. 5) Vernon, B.C.; Glen Mervyn (No. 4) Kelowna; Archie McKinnon (No. 3) Cranbrook, B.C.; Dave Anderson (No. 2) Victoria; John Lecky (bow) Vancouver and Sohen Biln (cox) Winfield.

READ JUBILANT

The Canadians were jubilant after returning to the boathouse. Even usually poker-faced coach Frank Read, a Vancouver hotel owner, smiled and acted as if he already had won the gold medal.

"It was the best the crew has done this year," beamed Read. "They looked so good I can't believe it. Sure I am happy, but only for two days. We'll wait and see what happens in the final Saturday.

"But whatever happens now they belong here."

The coach watched the race from the finish-line grandstand and said:

"I was concerned all along. The experts didn't rate us, but they know now we're here. I still say Germany may be the team to beat, but I don't know. I am proud of my gang."

The American loss in the eights capped a stunning series of reverses for the U.S. in two days of preliminary rowing on Lake Albano. After losing in the heats of three classes Tuesday, the Americans bowed four more times Wednesday, before finally winning in the repechages of the fours with coxswain.

The U.S. Naval Academy made its bid 200 metres from the finish, lifting its beat to 40 strokes a minute. The Americans started to move up, but the Canadians increased their own stroke to 41 and fought off the challenge.

The Americans were clocked in 6.07.69, followed by Italy, 6.09.05; Russia, 6.09.65, and Spain, 6.31.43.

The winds were variable during the race. "We had headwinds and cross winds right after the start and it was gusting in the last 700 metres, but we were flat out," said Mervyn.

Biln said the Americans made their move to catch the Canadians at 1,400 metres, but it was too late.

The Americans were not particularly disheartened. "If we can't win it, we want the Canadians to take the gold medal," one crew member said. "They've sure got a good crew."

FOURS PLACE LAST

In the heats of the fours without coxswain, Canada's entry from the St. Catharines Rowing Club, was fifth and last in one of the three heats, but will bet a second chance in the repechages Thursday.

Chris Leach (stroke), Bob Adams (No. 3), Clay Brown (No. 2) and Frank Zieski (bow) were clocked in six minutes, 56.32 seconds, well behind the winning Czechs' 6.36.65.

Britain was the first heat winner in 6.28.18—the best of the three winners—and Russia placed first in the second heat in 6.29.1.

Canada is the defending champion in the fours without cox. UBC took the gold award at Melbourne four years ago.

Four Gold Medals

Aussies Continue Swimming Mastery

ROME — Australia maintained mastery in swimming by capturing two more gold medals at the Olympic Games Wednesday.

There was just no stopping the Down-Under splashers as Dave Thiele and Murray Rose successfully defended their championship in the 100-metres backstroke and the 400-metres freestyle with Olympic record performances which brought to four the number of gold medals for Australia in swimming.

Thiele took charge from the start as he defended his backstroke title with a new record of 1.01.9 minutes, which shattered the mark of 1.02 set only Tuesday by Bob Bennett of the U.S.

Bennett was third Wednesday, behind teammate Frank McKinney.

A tremendous burst in the last 50 yards carried Rose to victory in 4.18.3 minutes, well under the former Olympic record of 4.19.2 set Tuesday night by Alan Somers of the United States.

Somers could do no better than fifth in the final, finishing behind Tsuyoshi Yamanaka of Japan, Jon Konrads of Australia and Ian Black of England as well as Rose.

Two other records fell in swim preliminaries. Chris Von Saltza of the U.S., beaten in the 100-metres final by Dawn Fraser of Australia Monday, led eight qualifiers for the women's 400-metres freestyle in the record time of 4.53.6 minutes.

Another U.S. swimmer, Mike Troy, set a new Olympic record of 2.15.5 in the 200-metres butterfly trials.

Elsewhere, Hungary won its second and third gold medals by winning the individual and team championships in the pentathlon. And Russia began to pile up its gold medals with expected victories in Greco-Roman wrestling, winning the lightweight, bantamweight and heavyweight championships.

The men's high platform diving preliminaries began Wednesday with Brian Phelps, a 16-year-old London schoolboy, leading the 16 who qualified for the final.

Yankee Cast-Offs Cut Into Slim Lead

New York Yankees have traded freely over the years but in getting the players they needed to keep them at the top they also had to give up something. Yesterday, ex-Yankees turned up all over the place to lop a half game off the slim New York lead.

First it was the Kansas City Athletics, anxious to be rid of the tag of Yankee patsies, who caused trouble. After losing a 3-2 heartbreaker on Tuesday night, the Athletics had Ray Herbert and Ned Garver ready for yesterday's doubleheader.

Herbert did what he could in the first game but the Yankees had the answer in rookie-righthander Bill Stafford. He came up with a four-hitter to win, 1-0, when Yogi Berra singled and Mickey Mantle tripled in the sixth inning.

Ex-Athletic Ralph Terry did his best to make it a sweep, and had a one-hit shutout starting in the sixth inning. Then the ex-Yankees in the Kansas City lineup did something about it. Russ Snyder plated the first two runs with a bases-loaded single. In the eighth, Norm Siebern singled in two runs and Andy Carey doubled in a third although Garver didn't need the runs, not allowing a runner past second base in what was to be a 6-0 shutout.

It cost the Yankees, Baltimore's determined Orioles edging closer with a 6-3 win over Cleveland Indians made possible by ex-Yankee Gene Woodling's grand-slam home run.

Over in the National League, Pittsburgh Pirates, spotting the San Francisco Giants three runs and then rallying to win, 7-4, tacked a half game onto their lead as their closest pursuers again exchanged positions.

St. Louis Cardinals, topping Cincinnati Reds, 2-1, behind six-hit pitching by rookie Ray Sadecki and Walt Moryn's two-run homer, passed Milwaukee. The Braves could do no better than split with Chicago Cubs, winning, 11-7, after losing, 5-4, in 10 innings to Bob Will's home run.

Relief pitcher ElRoy Face, striking out six in three innings, starred for the Pirates along with Bob Skinner and Don Hoak, who provided the big hits in the comeback win.

Play Bombers Tonight

Walden May Guide Lions

B.C. Lions will probably be quarterbacked by Jim Walden when they clash with the Blue Bombers at Winnipeg tonight but the University of Wyoming rookie will almost certainly have to meet his first Western Inter-provincial Football Union test without being able to call on Willie Fleming.

Fleming was aboard the plane along with Walden but the sophomore halfback is not likely to see action until Monday's game against Saskatchewan Roughriders at Regina. Luckily for the Lions, his injury turned out to be a severely bruised shoulder instead of a dislocation. The Lions are not believed ready to risk serious injury in a game in which their chances are not too bright and Fleming is expected to be "saved" for the Riders.

B.C. coach Wayne Robinson hasn't named his starting quarterback, and there is the chance he will dress both Walden and Randy Duncan with the former taking Fleming's import spot and getting a chance to call the signals if Duncan can't move the club.

DID WELL

If both are in the starting lineup and Duncan does well, Walden will be used in the defensive backfield. But if injuries to Canadian lineman Mike Cacic and Canadian linebacker Norm Fieldgate keep either or both out of the lineup and force Robinson to use import Lonnie Dennis in the line, Walden will likely get the quarterback nod. He did well against the Bombers in a 13-7 exhibition game loss.

Lions have made one definite change. University of Oregon fullback Nub Beamer getting his second starting chance as a replacement for Don Vicic. Club officials said Vicic "needed a rest" but Beamer earned another chance with fine play against Calgary Stampeders last week.

NEW LION

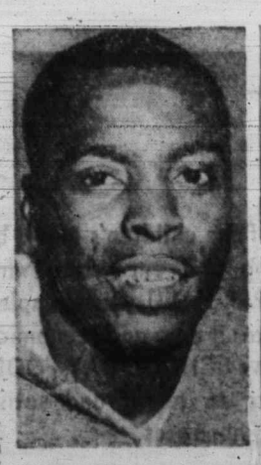
Lions announced that they will probably sign Frank Gilliam, former Winnipeg end they had sought unsuccessfully before the season started. Gilliam was sold to Ottawa Rough Riders, who handed him his release a few days ago. He is now in Vancouver negotiating a contract.

Bombers, winners of five straight games, which included a 35-21 win over the Lions in the WIFU opener, are waiting for the Lions with their usual professed trepitations.

Coach Bud Grant failed to find solace in the fact that Fleming wouldn't be able to play.

"That likely means that Bob Jeter will carry the ball twice as often, and that could mean trouble," he said.



FRANK GILLIAM
. . . job-hunting

Grant expects that Walden will quarterback, moaned that "I'd just as soon see that fellow on the bench."

Hot spots for grouse for Saturday's opening of the hunting season should be Beavertail and Gooseneck Lakes in the Sayward forest and Deadwood and Okay Mountains in the Nanaimo area.

Game biologist John Bandy says growth for the early hatch of grouse has been excellent in most areas, but the lower Island is a poor prospect for grouse hunters this year.

On Saturday biological check points for grouse will be set up at the Deadwood Creek gate in the Nanaimo area; at Campbellton at the Argonaut mine road; at the logging gate at Northwest Bay and at Blackjack Road, towards the end of Pleasant Valley Road, north of Nanaimo.

There will be another game check point at Duncan and spot checks will be made in the Victoria area.

All the grouse hunters want now is a bright cool day on Saturday with a little dew Friday evening to hold the scent for the dogs.

Pigeon season also opens Saturday and hunters are advised to go after them early because they scatter shortly after hunting season opens. John Bandy says they are more abundant this year than they have been for many years and may be found scattered almost anywhere on the Island in flocks of 200 to 300 pigeons. Because they are a migratory species, they may not be hunted with a rifle.

Grouse limit is eight per day with a possession limit of 40 and pigeon limit is 10 a day.

Ken Miller has posed an interesting problem.

Nowhere in Victoria can he find the fluorescent blaze orange and fluorescent neon red clothing colors which have been discovered by recent research to be the safest colors to wear while hunting. And, he says, no Victoria store seems to have an inclination to stock the colors.

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association access committee chairman Bob Bool confirms the colors can't be bought in town, but says he has an old football sweater he wears which is blaze orange color.

John Bandy comes up with the solution. Blaze orange dye may be bought for coloring fishing plugs and lures and may be used for dyeing patches or lightweight outer clothing for hunters.

Ralph Wherry, 629 Pandora, will open the fish and game office until 9 p.m. tonight and Friday so members may pick up their hunting access passes. It may be the last chance for passes, as Bob Bool says they likely will be cut off after Friday night.

We went to a funeral yesterday . . . and it was a sad occasion. It was the funeral of the small-mouthed bass in Langford Lake.

Yesterday, fish biologist David Hurn and assistants Allan Hunter, Jack Lenfesty, Bill Fowkes and John Bandy started the fish rehabilitation program of the Langford Lake system, by killing off with toxaphene all the bass, sunfish, catfish, trout and bullheads in the lake, with a view to restocking it in a couple of years with small-mouthed bass from two nursery lakes.

Hurn said that, although the .03 per million mixture of toxaphene was the strongest yet used by his department, it will have no harmful effects on humans, birds or even frogs around the lake.

The operation was not so spectacular as expected. Unlike with the more expensive rotenone, the fish do not float to the surface when toxaphene is used. "They must dive in the mud or something. We seldom see them after we poison a lake, but we know they are killed," Hurn said. He didn't expect the toxaphene would kill the crawfish in the lake.

He said he thought it possible the lake will be clear enough for restocking by May, 1962. Tests, using bass in cages, will start on the lake next spring and as soon as it is clear restocking will start.

"I think 1963 will be the earliest Langford can be fished again," Hurn said. Then, without competition from coarse fish, the bass should grow bigger and be more plentiful.

Some 45 gallons of toxaphene were used to kill off the fish in 147-acre Langford Lake and rotenone was used to kill off the fish in Turner Lake, adjacent to Langford, and the outlet ditch, where hundreds of match-size sunfish floated to the top of the water.

Two boys, Raymond Stewart, 11, and Brian Howe, 13, of Belmont Park, had a disappointing fishing trip on Langford Lake yesterday when they took to the water at the same time as the poison crew set out from shore. They didn't get any fish and it was a couple of hours before they found out the real-life drama that was going on around them.

The Langford Lake water is fine for swimming and any other activity, Hurn said yesterday.

Next week Florence Lake, which is also a well-known small-mouth bass lake, will be poisoned as part of the fish rehabilitation program.

Munn Wins Two Matches

B.C. Holds Half Junior Golf Berths

TORONTO — British Columbia nailed down four of the quarter-final berths in the Canadian junior golf championship on Wednesday with each member of the four-player team coming through in the two rounds of medal play which cut the championship field from 32 to eight.

The other four quarter-finalists are from Ontario and include two from the team which beat out British Columbia by three strokes in the inter-provincial team match which also served as the qualifying 36 holes for the individual championship.

Gordie Robinson of Vancouver, who had the highest B.C. total in the team match, came up with the day's biggest surprise. After edging by Ernie Hauser of Kitchener, a member of the Toronto team, 1 up, in the morning round, Robinson bowled over Montreal's Gordon LaRiche, co-medalist and last year's runner-up, 5 and 3.

Dick Munn of Victoria started with a 4 and 3 win over Albe Garde of Toronto, then won from dangerous Ron Folk of Saskatoon, 2 and 1, to reach the round of eight.

John Morgan of Vancouver, whose par 144 in the qualifying test was only one stroke more than the total of co-medalists LaRiche and Bob Panasiuk of Windsor Ridge Valley, had a bit of trouble in his first match. But he hung on to nip Bob Young of Markham, Ont., 1 up, then tripped up Rich Fraser of Regina, 4 and 3.

Terry Campbell of Vancouver completed the B.C. sweep with a 5 and 3 decision over Andre Gringas of Quebec City and a 4 and 3 verdict over Jim Scissons of Saskatoon.

Two more rounds will be played today to set up the final for Friday. Robinson and Campbell meet in the top half of the draw, in which the second match is between Morgan and Gary Black of St. Catharines.

In what is likely to be the feature match of the day, the highly-rated Munn tangles with the favored Panasiuk, who trimmed Bill MacWilliams of Toronto, 9 and 8, and then beat teammate John Kindred of Peterborough, 2 and 1, to reach the eights.

Stockers, Sprinters Take Over

Colwood Track on Trial

It would seem that Labor Day weekend, 1960, may be one of the greatest ever for Vancouver Island's auto racing clan.

It may also be a day to remember insofar as the B.C. Agricultural Association is concerned. And while the agricultural association's feelings on car racing may vary, the fair people will be more than slightly interested in what goes on at the old Colwood race track Monday afternoon.

The agricultural association is turning over its property—site of proposed class "A" fairs in the future—to the racers, a spokesman said, for the opportunity to reacquaint Island residents with "the facilities there."

The facilities include a mile and one-eighth track in a natural amphitheatre, easily-accessible routes and excellent parking space.

The track is undoubtedly one of the longest ever negotiated by most of the drivers. It is, in comparison, over three times as large as the four-tenths of a mile track at Western Speedway — the regular home of auto racing on the lower Island.

A crowd of 10,000, it has been estimated, can be handled without any trouble.

Western Speedway will stage a party of its own before moving to the Colwood track for a mammoth Labor Day meet. The Langford track, located north of the trans-Canada highway on Millstream Road, will host the B.C. sprint car championship Saturday night.

The featured, 50-lap race will attract Indianapolis-styled cars from Washington, Oregon and B.C. centres.

Saturday's time trials start 7.30 p.m.

Monday's meet at Colwood is being heralded as the largest car racing meet ever held in B.C. Stock cars, the Western Speedway regulars who generally can be counted upon to provide more action than speed, will combine with the sprinters to stage the holiday program.

Bigger Baseball Stadium Would Aid Toronto Bid

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto Maple Leafs have clinched the 1960 International League baseball pennant, and Jack Kent Cooke hopes it's the last of such.

* * *

JACK KENT COOKE
... big problem

Not that Cooke, who has owned the club since 1951, doesn't wish the Leafs well. It's just that he wants the next baseball pennant flying over a Toronto ball park to carry an American or National League label.

Toronto's bid to figure in the proposed expansion plans of the two major leagues is a strong one. Most baseball observers rate Toronto a better than even chance of nailing down one of the four new franchises expected — two in each league.

One of the problems to be faced before Toronto can jump to major league status, however, is the provision of a big league stadium. It has been one of the main points of discussion since Cooke first began making serious overtures in major league direction.

Leafs' present stadium, located on the industrial harbor front just east of the Canadian National Exhibition grounds, isn't being considered as anything more than a stopgap arrangement. It can handle 19,216 customers and could take nearly 26,000 with the addition of outfield bleacher seats and 400 field boxes.

The target for a major league park is a minimum of 35,000 seats, however, and Maple Leaf Stadium just doesn't have the elbow room in the crammed industrial area to expand that much.

FAST TRANSIT

One of the sites under consideration is the Rosedale ravine in midtown Toronto. It would be close to the Yonge Street subway for fast transit of ball fans and there's ample room to erect a gigantic sports park.

Residents of the Rosedale area are prepared to fight such a plan, however, seeing in it a property menace to their neighborhood of large houses, quiet streets and cool shade trees.

Best estimates are that a new stadium will cost just over $6,000,000, exclusive of land. But the Metropolitan Toronto planning commission says a natural amphitheatre site — like Rosedale — would cut the cost to $3,000,000, exclusive of land.

Financing of the project still is unresolved. Cooke has offered to guarantee the rental necessary to pay off a metro-built stadium, in 15 or 20 years and let metro retain ownership.

There is some opposition to having the public purse build the stadium. This has encouraged at least two private syndicates to talk of supplying the capital.

Some of those opposed to the idea point out that Leafs' winning club in the International League this season played to home crowds which averaged well under 5,000. Countering this is the argument that Toronto sports fans always go big for the big time—filling nearly every seat for Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League and Argonauts of the Big Four football circuit.

Port Credit Takes Lead In Lacrosse

PORT CREDIT, Ont. (CP) —Port Credit Sailors Tuesday night power-played their way to a 7-3 win over St. Catharines Athletics in the opening game of the best-of-seven eastern Canada senior lacrosse finals.

Second game will be in St. Catharines tonight. The third game will be here Saturday.

Ron Roy was serving a slashing penalty early in the third period when Pete Ruse scored two fast goals to put the Sailors ahead, 6-3. Paul Henderson's second goal of the night, five minutes later, finished the scoring.

Single Sailors' goals were made by Lou Nickle, Larry Ruse and George Kapasky, while Roy, Wayne Young and Les Howard scored for the As. Six penalties were handed out, three to each team.

UN Conference Call:

'Seize Opportunity Wipe Out Illiteracy'

★ ★ ★

New Attitude Urged On Adult Education

MONTREAL (CP)—The second UNESCO world conference on adult education closed Wednesday with an appeal for a new attitude toward adult education.

A declaration adopted unanimously said "nothing less will suffice than that people everywhere should come to accept adult education as a normal part—and that governments should treat it as a necessary part—of the educational provision of every country."

More than 200 delegates representing 51 countries and 51 non-governmental organizations attended the nine-day conference at McGill University.

First Issue: Survival

The declaration said man's first problem is to survive.

"It is not a question of the survival of the fittest; either we survive together, or we perish together. Survival requires that the countries of the world learn to live together in peace."

Rapidly developing countries in Asia, Africa and Latin America had their own special problems. For them adult education, including education for literacy, was "a need so overpowering that here and now we must help men and women to acquire the knowledge and skills that they need for the new patterns of community living into which they are moving."

Advanced countries could perform "such an act of wisdom, justice and generosity as could seize the imagination of the whole world.

Illiteracy Soon Gone

"With their help illiteracy could be aradicated within a few years if—preferably through the United Nations and its agencies—a resolute, comprehensive and soundly planned campaign were undertaken.

"We believe profoundly that this is an opportunity which ought to be seized."

In the developed countries, such as Canada and the United States, the immediate need was for more balanced education.

"Healthy societies are composed of men and women, not of animated robots, and there is a danger that the education of adults may get out of balance by emphasizing too much vocational needs and technical skills."

'Take Reins Again'

Come Back, Trujillo Dominican Appeal

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic (UPI) — President Joaquin Balaguer called yesterday for strong man Generalissimo Rafael L. Trujillo Molina to take over the reins of government again.

Balaguer said he agreed with Dominican public opinion that Trujillo is the man best qualified to defend the "sacred interests" of the nation "in view of the situation created by the rupture of diplomatic relations between the Dominican Republic and the other American states."

Balaguer, who assumed the presidency earlier this month when the strong man's brother, Hector, stepped down because of ill health, said he was prepared to resign immediately.

Perrault Slams Back At School-Tax Critics

'Taxpayers in Revolt' Over Socred Policy

By TED SHACKLEFORD

The Liberal Party's contentious promise to lift school taxation from homes and farms was vigorously defended in Victoria last night by provincial leader Ray Perrault.

Slamming back at other major parties which have singled out the proposal for ridicule and criticism, Mr. Perrault said flatly Premier Bennett's claim that the move would cost $60,000,000 was more than double the actual amount.

He also:

● Described his party's promise as "frank recognition that land is no true measure of wealth."

● Said the government's policy on schools had "put local taxpayers in a state of revolt," causing the defeat of eight of the last 17 school money by-laws drawn up in B.C.

● Claimed "thousands of children are streaming into B.C., imposing an intolerable burden on home owners" because their parents do not own homes.

● Promised "the greatest efficiency and clean-up campaign that this province has ever seen" to help bear school costs.

Mr. Perreault was speaking at a Greater Victoria Liberal rally in the Dominion Theatre. Some 500 persons attended.

"There is electricity running through B.C. tonight," he told the crowd. "It isn't Wenner-Gren electricity.

ABOUT TO CHANGE

"This is an electricity that I predict could sweep the Liberals into power Sept. 12. Conditions are the same as they were in 1952 when the people were about to change.

"I think they are going to turn to the Liberal party."

With unemployment 69 per cent higher than at the same time last year, the Social Credit government is taking no tangible steps to meet the crisis, he charged.

WORST CRISIS

"The truth is, we are faced with the worst unemployment crisis in recent years. We can't allow this to continue. We have to have a government that deals with reality."

And he promised a Liberal government would contain at east one woman cabinet minister—in charge of "an agency of consumer affairs."

SECOND LEVEL

Together with aid for universities, Mr. Perrault pledged a Liberal government to providing a second level of education—vocational training for those residents who don't attend university.

"There are goals in our platform that are long-range," he told a questioner who asked how the Liberals could avoid raising taxes at the same time as they implemented their promises.

AS AFFORDED

"We will bring in all these things as the province can afford them," he said.

He criticized Health Minister Eric Martin's announcement of extended hospital insurance to cover chronic patients and claimed the plan ony benefited 350 of B.C.'s 10,000 chronic care patients.

Victoria MLA George Gregory gained a lengthy ovation when he told a Socialist in the audience "I'd sooner be a wage slave under Premier Bennett than a comrade in any country you can name."

The socialist disclaimed any loyalty to the "Russian capitalist class" and said capitalism exists in Russia and Red China.

Long-time Liberals with grey hair were among the first to clap their hands in time to "When the Grits Go Maching In," played as Greater Victoria candidates marched down one aisle of the theatre and along the other.

Big B.C. Polio Toll Against the Trend

Polio has stricken 127 British Columbians this year compared with 10 in the first eight months of last year, the provincial health department said yesterday.

This incidence is contrary to the national trend. The Canadian total is down to 320 cases compared with 667 in late August last year.

Royal Jubilee Hospital, treatment centre for Vancouver Island polio cases, has admitted 21 so far this year, 14 of them from Greater Victoria.

But the city health department said yesterday only two of the Greater Victoria cases have been diagnosed as true poliomyelitis, compared with one at the same time last year. The others, an official said, have mainly been cases of a non-paralytic meningitis.

Saanich Fire Minor Matter

Saanich firemen yesterday rapidly extinguished a fire which broke out in a pile of litter in the basement of a home at 870 Brett Avenue.

Mrs. George Price said there had been no fire in the furnace for 24 hours and could not guess the cause of the blaze. Damage was slight.

Help for Alcoholics Sought by CCFer

Victoria CCF candidate Neil Hindle last night called for spending of a substantial portion of revenue from the province's liquor control board on rehabilitation of alcoholics and promotion of alcoholism education.

He told an election rally in Woodsworth Hall that Victoria alone has 600 alcoholics yet the Social Credit government apparently looks to the LCB solely for tax revenue.

"From the profits amounting to approximately $26,000,000 annually from the sale of liquor in the province, I say that $100,000 allocated to the Alcoholism Research Foundation is a mere pittance," the candidate charged.

He said similar programs should be instituted for rehabilitation and education of drug users.

"The answer to our social needs cannot by any stretch of the imagination be placed upon the shoulders of voluntary organizations. This does not mean, however, there is no place in our society for such worthy organizations.

"A CCF government will take strong forward steps to bring about needed measures to counteract these illnesses," said Mr. Hindle.

Road Repairs 'Followed Election Call'

Esquimalt CCF candidate Geoffrey Mitchell told an election rally near his home in Metchosin that Social Credit "cynically" waited until an election was imminent before making badly needed highway repairs in the district.

He referred to a "well-known bump" on the Happy Valley road which over a four-year period grew wider and deeper. "Yet when this election came along it was miraculously filled up and our way made smooth again," he told an audience of 31 friends and neighbors.

"Are we supposed to say 'thank you Phil Gaglardi for removing the inconvenience'?" said Mr. Mitchell. He added a CCF government would "plan ahead to remove bumps and depressions of all kinds."

Grass Fire Quelled Inside Golf Course

A small grass fire believed started by boys with a cigaret lighter was extinguished by Saanich firemen last night on the Cedar Hill Golf Course near Camrose Crescent.

Credit Rating Of CCF High

CAYCUSE CAMP (CP)—Russ Brown, Saskatchewan minister of industry and information, said Wednesday night his government has one of the best credit ratings of any province.

Mr. Brown told a political meeting in this Vancouver Island community his government has found "no difficulty whatsoever in borrowing hundreds of millions of dollars for self-liquidating projects such as power and telephones."

"This is a measure of confidence investors have in a CCF province. This gives the lie to scare stories by Social Credit and its allies."

Hecklers Enliven Wild Bennett Rally

NEW WESTMINSTER (CP) —Premier W. A. C. Bennett heckled the hecklers, smiled, shouted and jokingly tossed papers at the audience during a rousing Social Credit meeting at a jam-packed high school auditorium here Wednesday night.

The premier criticized labor sections, rattled off figures on government accomplishments and shouted back at the hecklers during the meeting, described by some reporters as the wildest election meeting of the current campaign.

ASKS MANDATE

Mr. Bennett defended the Trade Unions Act, which has been bitterly attacked by labor, and said the government had the courage to pass it and "I ask a mandate for it."

About 1,500 persons jammed the auditorium and an estimated 200 were turned away—Mr. Bennett said "thousands couldn't get in" — as the premier waved his hands and said, "I will nail the falsehoods to the mast tonight."

At one point chairman George Hahn called two hecklers to the stage, where they made a one-minute pro-CCF speech.

DOUBLE BILL

One of them, Gilbert Fordim, 22, Port Coquitlam, said electricity costs more in B.C. than it does in Saskatchewan, where it is supplied by public utilities.

Chairman Hahn then produced two light bills, one from B.C. and one from Saskatchewan, and said it proved that the same amount of power costs less in B.C. than it does in the Prairie province.

Fordim agreed, casually poured a drink of water from the premier's jug and stepped from the platform to the wild applause of the throng.

Sub-Standard Homes Face City Crackdown

City council health and welfare committee took first steps yesterday toward condemnation of two houses on Garbally, and sounded a warning to owners of sub-standard living accommodation in Victoria.

Ald. M. H. Mooney said that "some complaints go back as far as 1950 where landlords promised to make corrections and nothing has been done. It can go on and on if we don't take a positive stand."

The committee recommended that city officials carry out the bylaws as far as living accommodation is concerned in Victoria, and Ald. Mooney added: "It will take some time to get rolling, but this will give department officials the knowledge that we are backing them."

City officials reported both Garbally houses to be unsanitary and hazardous. The committee called for preparation of a demolition order.

Classes will be held both morning and afternoon when schools re-open in Greater Victoria Tuesday morning. Pupils in elementary grades must report at 9 a.m., Grades 7 and 10 report at the same time, Grades 8 and 11 report at 10 a.m. and Grades 9 and 12 report at 11 a.m.

950 Children Enrolled In Eight Kindergartens

Eight kindergarten centres accommodating about 950 pupils will begin operation in Greater Victoria schools starting Tuesday.

Classes for pre-schoolers will be held at Doncaster, George Jay, Glanford, Lampson Street, Margaret Jenkins, North Ward, Oaklands and Sir James Douglas schools.

In order to accommodate the enrolment in the same number of kindergartens as last year, groups of 30 children will attend morning or afternoon on alternate weeks.

Parents have been advised by mail that their children belong to groups beginning either Sept. 6 or Sept. 12.

Relatives Seeking Arizona Visitors

Arizona visitors, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lew of Phoenix, believed to be on Vancouver Island or the lower mainland, were requested last night to call the nearest RCMP detachment regarding a family matter.

B.C. TURKEY MAKES A LABOR DAY TREAT

Young B.C. turkeys are so tender, so flavourful and so downright economical that you'll want to begin now to develop your own repertoire of turkey dishes. There are dozens of ways to serve B.C. turkey. And you'll especially love the variety of sizes — to suit every family and budget.

AN IMPORTANT B.C. INDUSTRY

The poultry farmers of British Columbia are independent business men striving to produce the finest poultry and eggs at the lowest possible prices. They contribute over $24,000,000 a year to the economy of our province, but their importance cannot be measured in dollars alone. Poultry farming is a vital part of our agricultural industry and B.C. poultry products are among the best in the world.

NEW WAYS TO COOK B.C. YOUNG TURKEYS

Oven-Barbecued Turkey

One of the easiest, most delicious ways to serve B.C. young turkey is in an oven-barbecue. Allow about 2½ hours to prepare a turkey cut in pieces.

Step one — about 20 minutes. Lightly brown turkey in salad oil, butter or fat.

Step two — about 1 hour. Arrange in single layer in shallow oven pan. Lightly season with salt, pepper and paprika. Bake at 325°F. Baste with a mixture of butter and giblet broth. Allow 1 tbsp. each per pound of turkey.

Step three — about ½ to 1 hour. Baste with barbecue sauce, turning once or twice to crisp and brown evenly.

Roast Young B.C. Turkey

Thaw, if necessary. Allow about 5 hours per pound if thawing in refrigerator. Wipe with clean, damp cloth. Stuff, if desired. Place breast down on rack, crossed skewers or forks to keep off bottom of pan and allow heat to circulate. Butter the back of the turkey and roast at 325°F. Allow 3½ — 4 hours for a stuffed B.C. turkey weighing 8-10 lbs.

Note: Plan to remove bird from oven 20 to 30 minutes ahead of serving. It will carve more easily.

Basting. When some fat has collected in roasting pan add 1 tbsp. of B.C. Honey. From time to time baste bird. Half way through cooking time, turn breast up.

To keep moist. Cover with brown paper that has been greased on both sides.

Stuffing. Allow 1 cup of bread crumbs per pound eviscerated weight. Lightly fry 1 or 2 finely chopped onions (about a cup) in ¼ cup of butter. Add 8 cups (1-24 oz. loaf) bread crumbs. Mix well with onion, turn off heat and season with ½ tsp. salt, pepper, and about a tsp. thyme. Stuff bird with hot dressing — you will cut down on cooking time and increase flavour.

B.C. Poultry and Eggs are one of your most economical sources of best quality protein. Wise housewives know that if they buy the B.C. foods in season they can afford to dine royally all the year round . . . even to "chicken every Sunday."

Indians Stage Sit-In

Two Fathers Arrested At All-White School

DUNN, N.C. (UPI)—Seven Indian children, protesting the 70-mile, daily round trip they have to make to a segregated school, staged a sit-down Wednesday at the all-white high school here. Two of their fathers were arrested.

The Indians sought admission to the all-white Dunn High School because they currently are forced to travel out of the county to attend school.

★ ★ ★

Sheriff Wade Stewart said the Indians would be booked for trespassing.

Police chief A. A. Cobb, who was called to the school earlier, advised all the Indians, members of several tribes but mostly Croatans, to leave the school. Most obeyed.

Cobb asked Woodrow Groves and his wife to leave. Groves said: "This is a free country. We'll stand in the street." He was arrested.

Billy Chance was requested to leave and advised that if he didn't, he would be arrested. He told officers: "I think I'll stay. They'll have to take me away." Two officers took him by the arms and led him to jail.

★ ★ ★

The Indians said they had hired an out-of-county lawyer but refused to identify him.

Inside, officers had patrolled the school corridors and glanced occasionally into the two classrooms where the Indians sat in desks and vowed to stay until they were admitted.

The Indians forced white students who were registered to either stand or sit in desks with other students while the teachers nervously tried to conduct class.

★ ★ ★

No violence was reported although some white students gave cat-calls and Indian war-whoops. The Indian children paid no attention.

Juanita Chance, seeking admission to Grade 10, replied, "We came here to go to school, we will stay."

★ ★ ★

Mrs. Groves, mother of Dalton Groves, a 13-year-old Grade 9 student, said "the law says the children must go to school and we're going to send them here."

School officials described the atmosphere in the classrooms where the Indians were sitting as "upset and full of tension."

Nine Indians had attempted to register for classes when school opened Tuesday and were refused. They said they would continue to appear at the school each day until they were admitted.

Socialists Won't Get Their Little Hyde Park

City council parks committee yesterday opposed allowing a corner of Beacon Hill Park to become a little Hyde Park.

The Victoria local of the Socialist Party of Canada asked permission to present speeches in a park field every Sunday afternoon as long as the weather remains warm.

"We should say it's against the policy of council," said chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney.

"I don't think there has been any policy," said City Manager C. C. Wyatt, "although there has been discussion of whether or not we should have a Hyde Park corner."

But Ald. Mooney maintained a policy had been followed "against allowing such public speaking in the park," and the committee voted to reject the request.

The committee also:

● Granted the request of the Victoria Cycling Club for permission to have a bicycle race in Beacon Hill Park Saturday afternoon, despite opposition from the police chief, on grounds of danger, and from assistant parks administrator Clifford Bate, who said the main parking lot would be cut off and traffic jammed.

● Decided to suggest to Victoria University that a regulation track on the university campus would be a welcome addition to Greater Victoria facilities.

● Asked for a report on possibilities of improving traffic direction in Beacon Hill Park—"It is only a matter of time before drastic steps will have to be taken to protect this park for pedestrians for whom it was designed and intended," a report from administrator W. H. Warren said.

Not Funny, Says Mayor

Beacon Hill Paradise For Bulb-Snatchers

Beacon Hill, with its ornamental lighting, has become a bulb-snatchers' paradise.

And that's not funny, Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday.

"Special attention will be paid to the park," he said. "If anyone is caught destroying equipment or stealing bulbs, we will throw the book at them."

The parks department reported that in August, thieves and vandals stole 114 light bulbs, smashed six more, and threw seven into Goodacre Lake.

Other vandalism included overturning 21 seats, throwing two garbage cans into the lake, trampling begonias behind the bandshell, and smashing two panes of glass and damaging a drinking fountain.

Hecklers Hit Stride At All-Party Rally

By TERRY HAMMOND

★ ★ ★

Brentwood Burghers Ebullient

Sixty-four good burghers of the hamlet of Brentwood last night teamed up with five provincial candidates to give Greater Victoria its most rousing 1960 election meeting to date.

It was a meeting notable for an almost continuous undercurrent of heckling, caustic remarks and for the politely sympathetic reception given a Communist Party candidate by an audience almost wholly made up of supporters of the free-enterprise system.

TISDALLE LATE

And it was an all-candidate meeting notable for the fact that all Saanich candidates showed up, although Socred MLA John Tisdalle was 50 minutes late and earnestly assured newsmen it was not done to win him the opportunity to speak last.

Bulk of the heckling was aimed at Conservative nominee Victor Virgin who garnered his share of abuse for alleged shortcomings of the Diefenbaker government.

"What about Diefenbaker's promise about jobs for all?" a voice shouted from the rear of the hall as Mr. Virgin launched his attack on the Social Credit government.

He said he couldn't understand why the government was so critical of Ottawa.

"We do," cried the voice again.

And when he predicted Socreds would never send a government to Ottawa cries of "You'll be surprised," filled the hall.

Later, pointing to Mr. Tisdalle, CCF candidate Patrick Thomas and Communist candidate Ernest Knott, he said it was time Canadians "got rid of barnacles like these" and went back to the two-party system.

Mr. Knott also came in for his share of heckling, but played the party line on a low key asking chiefly for disarmament and recognition of Red China.

"You are probably wondering why the Communist Party of Canada is running a candidate in Saanich," he opened.

"You can say that again," came a voice.

SAY IT AGAIN

When he praised some of the policies of other parties but pointed out that there was a big difference between the Communist Party and the rest the same voice shot back "and you can say that again, too."

But he drew as much applause for his 15-minute address as the other speakers.

Cries of "you and a million others," answered Liberal Frank Greive's reasoning of "why I couldn't be a Social Credit candidate."

GM AS WELL

Mr. Tisdalle said that following the CCF's policy to take over the B.C. Electric they should also advocate state ownership of General Motors and other large corporations.

"Then we'll take in each other's washing and go back to wheelbarrows, that's what we'll do."

"That's nonsense," cried a CCF supporter.

GO BACK, JOHN

Mr. Tisdalle got in the most telling blow of the night against the ranks of impromptu critics when he said he came originally from Saskatchewan and a voice shouted, "You should have stayed there."

"Well, if I had, I'd be the Social Credit member for Regina right now," he shot back.

He lashed out at the Communist party for urging Canada to blacklist South Africa, a Commonwealth nation, while advocating recognition of Red China and won cries of "Hear, hear."

JUST RUBBISH

But when he said all people have human weaknesses and that "I am not above them," a new voice came back with the "You can say that again" bit, and a second voice added "that's just rubbish."

During the question period loud shouts of "No, no" and "Of course not" came when one of the audience asked Mr. Knott if he could espouse the cause of capitalism or democracy in a Communist country.

SLAVES, MAN

And when he replied that Communism implies a one-class society consisting of workers, a heckler yelled, "slaves, you mean."

Another bright interchange came near the end after a heckler branded a question put by a woman as "absolutely idiotic."

"What's difference does it make," said another, "she's asking an idiot to answer it."

The meeting, sponsored by the Central Saanich Chamber of Commerce, was the first all-candidate meeting in the Greater Victoria campaign so far.

Total Eclipse May Be Seen

Given clear skies over Victoria Sunday night there'll be an opportunity to see a total eclipse of the moon.

No scientific observations will be made through the giant telescope at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, officials said yesterday.

The moon will be low in the southwest sky and the earth's shadow will start moving across its face at 8.36 p.m. This partial phase of the eclipse continues until there is "totality" at 9.38 p.m.

The moon turns reddish during the period from 9.38 p.m. to 12.06 a.m. when the earth, passing between it and the sun, completely blocks out the direct sunlight. The coppery hue results from the sun's rays bent as they pass through the earth's atmosphere.

Coming out of eclipse there is a second partial phase which ends at 1.08 a.m. Monday.

A spokesman for the observatory said yesterday the position of the moon low on the horizon in the southwest makes observation through the 74-inch reflecting telescope impractical.

The last total eclipse of the moon seen in this area was in March this year.

Cyclist Clocks 40,000 Miles

A young Victoria motorcyclist, who started off for South America and finished up in England, returned home this week with nearly 2½ years and 40,000 miles of travel behind him.

When George Winterburn and Paul Jones set off from Victoria in May, 1958, they had South America in mind. Arriving at the Mexican border they found the Pan American Highway in no shape to be travelled so they turned north again.

The pair split up at Laredo, Texas, and did not meet again until they arrived in Windsor, Ont.

ENGLAND NEXT

Here the partnership broke up. George still had the wanderlust and since he could not get to South America he thought he'd have a look at England.

The young motorcyclist worked in Montreal long enough to earn his passage then loaded his bike and himself aboard a boat. He arrived in Southhampton with £25.

It took £19 to licence and insure his motorcycle, and rather than appeal for welfare he wandered around London for three days looking for work with little food and less sleep. The fourth day he got a job and lodgings within hours. Building up another travelling fund, he toured England and set off for Europe.

George found the Riviera not all he had hoped it would be. "There were a lot of fine beaches but it cost money to get on them," he said.

Running low on funds he tried to get a job in Italy, but foreigners were banned from jobs due to serious unemployment.

He wired home for money and boarded the Constitution for the trip home.

Empress Institution To Be Brightened

Nothing drastic, of course, but that rich but somewhat sombre Victoria institution, the Empress Hotel dining room, may be brightened up next year.

"We haven't a definite plan yet," hotel manager Cyril Chapman said yesterday. "But we hope to do it next January or February."

The walls and drapes will be brightened, he indicated, but the character of the room won't be greatly altered. The ornate ceiling will be kept as it is.

'What Will We Do?'

Grits Grit Teeth At Ray's Delays

★ ★ ★

'Won't Win This Way Mother!'

By PETER BRUTON

THE SCENE: The big Liberal rally in the Dominion Theatre last night didn't go quite as smoothly as organizers had hoped.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault was an hour late in arriving, causing anxious Grits to pace up and down outside muttering such comments as "Do you think he missed the plane?" "What will we do if he doesn't arrive?" "Maybe the plane wasn't supposed to leave Vancouver until 8 p.m." "What will we do if he doesn't arrive?"

Victoria Liberal campaign manager David Hummel, who with local candidates tried to hold the fort until Mr. Perrault arrived, was a trifle nervous.

He drew a laugh when he introduced candidate Geoff Edgelow as a man who had spent "three years overhead . . . I mean overseas."

Although organizers said the downstairs of the theatre was "packed" there were 73 vacant seats in the first five rows when the meeting began and many more behind them.

One young Liberal had a personal disaster — someone collided with his new sports car parked outside.

The Gashouse Six Dixieland band playing outside the theatre consisted of only five musicians.

And the vocalist who led the singing of "When the Grits Go Marching In" somehow got her "Grits" and "Saints" a little mixed up.

"Humph!" commented an elderly member of the audience. "They won't win this way, Mother."

★ ★ ★

WEIGHTY DIET: All this hurried politicking is having an odd effect on CCF leader Robert Strachan.

He's lost more than 20 pounds already.

★ ★ ★

REAL REASON: Socred Don Smith, seeking re-election in Victoria, has a different story to tell about his visit to local jazz nightspot "The Scene" during the weekend.

"I visited the Scene to see whether it was true the Victoria Liberal campaign was originating from there," he said. "I found this to be true. And that's the reason why so many longtime Liberals who can no longer dig this new Go Grit Beatnik campaign are joining Social Credit."

★ ★ ★

DIVIDED LOYALTY: Mrs. Jacqueline Mitchell could not make up her mind last night whether to go to hear her son, Frank, who is CCF candidate in Oak Bay, or her husband, Geoff, CCF candidate in Esquimalt.

She did neither.

Mrs. Mitchell decided to go to Nanaimo to hear CCF Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan instead.

★ ★ ★

POLE-AXED: Political campaign offices in Cowichan-Newcastle have all received letters which state bluntly:

"With the election coming up there is the possibility that some people might consider using our poles on which to mount posters. These posters are a hazard to the lives of our linesmen and in the interest of safety we are requesting that all parties refrain from attaching posters to our poles."

The letters were sent out by B.C. Power Commission and candidates in the riding, represented in the last legislature by CCF leader Robert Strachan, are not using the poles for their poster-locations.

But just across "the border" there are a lot of posters on telephone and power poles. Most of them are for Social Credit candidate Herb Bruch.

★ ★ ★

COST OF PROGRESS: If the Progressive Conservatives weren't Progressive their candidates' names would be a lot higher on the ballots on Sept. 12 voting day.

The ballots will have the names of the government—Social Credit — candidates in top position followed by the candidates for the Opposition—the CCF.

After that the order will be alphabetical: Communists if any; Liberals and Progressive Conservatives.

★ ★ ★

SLIPPED DISC: CCF leader Robert Strachan says the government is always telling its opposition to look at the record.

"I wish I could but they won't let me," he said. "I'd love to see the RCMP report on Sommers, the Carrothers report on civil service, the report on education finance."

★ ★ ★

INDIVIDUAL CAMPAIGN: Victoria Liberals are leaving no stone unturned in their search for supporters.

In the past few days more than 7,000 letters angled towards specific business and ethnic groups have been sent out in Victoria.

Different style letters—but each containing the same message of "vote for us"—have gone out to every Victoria doctor, dentist, Chinese and East Indian as well as every person who has become a Canadian citizen since 1956.

And the letters to Chinese and East Indian voters were translated into their respective languages.

★ ★ ★

DIFFERENT TUNE: The opposition glibly changes its tune to suit political expediency, according to Saanich Socred John Tisdalle.

He notes with amusement how the opposition parties vociferously attack the province's debt-free status. For he vividly recalls that when the vote on Bill 55—which in effect proclaimed B.C. debt free—came last March only one man in the legislature stood up to be counted as against the measure.

And that lone voice was Tom Uphill, the fiery old independent member for Fernie who is not standing this year.

Other opposition members voted with the government.

★ ★ ★

FAULTY FILES: Tight travelling and speaking schedule of CCF leader Robert Strachan has even his own campaign headquarters in Vancouver confused.

Yesterday his staff looked up his itinerary, saw that he was scheduled to be in Kitimat and spent a fruitless afternoon trying to contact him there.

They apparently forgot they had issued a corrected itinerary switching dates between Prince Rupert and Kitimat a week or so ago.

★ ★ ★

WORKING ON THE RAILROAD: Socred Waldo Skillings' charge that hordes of Saskatchewan jobless were fleeing the CCF government to come to B.C. was interpreted this way by Oak Bay Liberal candidate Alan Macfarlane:

"Truth of the matter is that the jobless are probably coming to Prince George to work on that magnificent railroad of Mr. Bennett's. Eight got jobs on the Pacific Northern Railway and the rest are still waiting."

★ ★ ★

SPEEDY SERVICE: Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood told a Sidney audience the other night that Socred candidate John Tisdalle had been giving him a bad time over the removal of a sign from the entrance to John Dean Park.

A new sign was just about ready to be placed in position, he told an applauding audience.

They were somewhat amazed when, on their way home, they saw the new sign already erected.

★ ★ ★

HANDS OFF!: Esquimalt Liberal standard-bearer George Whittaker is having to change his views about old-style electioneering procedures.

He complains that every time he is about to kiss a baby his wife, who doubles as his campaign manager, drily comments: "That's no baby!"

★ ★ ★

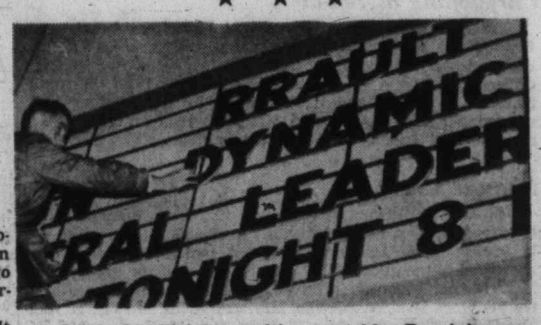
PEACEFUL CO-EXISTENCE: Alberni Social Credit candidate Fred Duncan was marooned in the West Coast community of Ucluelet when bad weather grounded his chartered aircraft.

He finally hitched a ride from Mark Mosher, the Communist candidate standing for the same riding.

★ ★ ★

DOUBLE BILL: Liberal rally in the old Dominion Theatre last night had some strong competition from the Plaza Theatre next door.

Two movies playing at the Plaza: "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," and "The Crooked Shadow."



Liberal officials, waiting outside Dominion Theatre for late arriving Liberal leader Ray Perrault last night, protested the removal of the sign advertising the rally. Nevertheless Don Elphick, sorry for any inconvenience, had sign down long before Mr. Perrault arrived. —(Colonist photo.)

Free Dentures Brighten Pensioner Smiles

Six Greater Victoria pensioners are smiling happily nowadays—with new teeth supplied free by Victoria dentists.

They were the first to take advantage of the Victoria and District Dental Society's offer to supply false teeth to worthy pensioners.

But an unexpected problem has grown out of the offer—several of the pensioners insisted on making what payment they can afford for the teeth.

So a special fund has been established to be spent on suitable experimental projects in the field of the welfare of aged persons.

The fund will be administered by representatives from the Victoria Dental Society, the Silver Threads Service and the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria.

Dr. R. L. Horne, president of Victoria Dental Society said last night that dental societies throughout British Columbia are showing interest in the Victoria experiment and similar schemes may develop in other centres.

Executive officers of Greater Victoria pensioner groups "screen" applications for free dental work and successful applicants are allocated to dentists by a special committee.

The bride is the former Barbara Anne Clarke, daughter of Mrs. Thelma Clarke, 1326 Moorgreen Place, and the late Harry Clarke. Mr. and Mrs. William Cousens of Blairmore, Alta., are the groom's parents. White gladioli decorated the church and white satin bows marked the pews.

R. C. Clarke gave his sister in marriage. Chantilly lace formed the bodice of her gown which had a sabrina neckline and lily point sleeves. Nylon organza skirt was fitted at hipline and swept back to a train. She carried a cascade bouquet of champagne roses.

Autumn shades were in gowns worn by the four attendants. Matron of honor, Mrs. B. Gould, the bride's sister, wore moss green organza over autumn colored print. Bridesmaid Barbara Wallace, Vancouver, chose chocolate brown organza over the same print while bridesmaid, Rosemarie Harbick, Vancouver, had tangerine organza over the same material. Flower girl, Sharon Bell, Vancouver, wore burnt orange organza over tangerine taffeta. Senior attendants carried cascade bouquets of gladioli and chrysanthemums while primrose yellow daisies were in the flowergirl's basket.

Okanagan Honeymoon For Mr. and Mrs. Nixon

Rev. Dr. H. K. Johnston officiated at double-ring wedding in Fairfield United Church recently when Carol Grace Keifer and Leonard Melvin Nixon were united in marriage.

Twin baskets of white, pink and mauve gladioli, asters and stocks formed the setting for the evening ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Keifer of Linden Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Nixon, Royston, B.C.

Church organist and elder sister of the bride, Faith Webster played the organ. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Mary Youson sang "I'll Walk Beside You."

A floor-length gown of white silk organza with full billowing skirt, featuring embroidered appliques of flowers and frilled miniature organza bustle was worn by the bride. Embroidered applique also circled the sabrina neckline of the princess-styled bodice. A sheer waist-length veil, accented with appliques, was attached to a dainty rhinestone tiara. She carried pink orchids with stephanotis and streamers on a white satin-covered Bible.

Matron of honor and youngest sister of the bride, Mrs. M. Bennett, wore a gown of turquoise silk organza with short skirt and three-quarter-length full sleeves. Bridesmaid, Miss Norah Bennett wore an identical dress of pink organza. They carried identical cascade bouquets of pink and mauve sweet peas and feathered pink carnations.

Mr. Robert Potter was best man and Mr. Ronald Griswold and Mr. Frank Keifer, brother of the bride, ushered.

Little Joan Youson circulated the bride's wedding book among the guests who attended the reception in Holyrood House. Dave Oliphant proposed the toast and Rev. Johnston said grace. Frank Keifer, brother of the bride, Bob Lawson and Gary Grafton supplied music at the reception.

For the Okanagan Valley honeymoon the new Mrs. Nixon chose a sea-blue Blin and Blin fitted suit and black patent accessories.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. A. B. Hurdon, maternal grandmother of the bride, from Port Arthur, and Miss Melinda Gebbie of San Francisco.

Ulcer-Years Between 45 to 54

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nine years of the American female's life produce the most ulcers.

The ulcer years, surprisingly, aren't during the child-bearing and child-rearing span of life. They are between the ages of 45 and 54—the years when the offspring are getting degrees, married and having children of their own.

The statisticians found that during the ulcer-prone years of life, 17.5 of every 1,000 women have an ulcer.

In every age group, however, ulcers were found most prevalent among men. The peak ulcer period for the males is during years 35-44. In this age group, the health detectives figure, 42.5 of every 1,000 men have ulcers.

For another view on the ulcer situation, experts at the health insurance institute fed statistics from the ulcer survey into its calculators. The institute found that ulcers today are four times as common among Americans now as they were in the 1930's—depression days.

But this seeming quadrupling of the ulcer rate is attributed in part to more accurate methods of diagnosis through wider use of X-ray equipment, the institute said.

There's an off-hand chance, for example, that ulcers were just as prevalent during the depression—but that most of them were never diagnosed. That is, they went down on the medical history card as pains in the stomach or upset stomach.

While ulcer incidence goes up where females are concerned around age 45, the statisticians reported that the frequency of ulcers among men declines after age 45.

The factfinders also said that most ulcer victims have their ulcers under control most of the time. Eighty-five per cent of the persons nursing ulcers told the researchers they had no limitation on normal activity as a result of the ailment.

Most of the rest — 15 per cent—were limited in outside activities or in the amount or kind of major activity they could enter into without risking an ulcer flare-up.

And 3.3 per cent of the sufferers said their ulcers were so bad that they were unable to carry on major activity. Their ulcers benched them.

The statisticians said that the nation's 2.4 million ulcer victims lose an estimated 12,000,000 days from work during an average year.

On an average work day, this figures out to about 49,000 persons not showing up in the office or factory because of ulcers.

Not officially counted in the absenteeism are the housewives who must leave the dishes stacked in the sink and ignore unmade beds because their ulcers are kickin' up a fuss.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann: Mother died when I was 13. At 17 I left home (as did my two brothers) to get away from my father who is an opinionated, bigoted tyrant. We all hated him.

Today I am married to a man I adore. We have three children, a barn of a house that we love, and no bills we can't handle with an extra 60 days. We were blissfully happy until last week.

Dad has a lovely home in Texas, and is rolling in money. He wrote to tell me he sold his home and has contacted an agent to find a house as close to ours as possible.

If he had written to say he was moving in with me I would know what to say—but how can I tell him I don't want him in our city?

Don't tell me to invite him over one night a week. I can't stand him three nights a year.

When he visited us last year my husband "worked late" almost every night to escape his constant yakking. The only way I could escape was to go to the bathroom. Then he'd stand outside the door and continue to talk.

He has no friends here and no interests. Of course he has no friends in Texas either but I know he'll expect to tag along with us.

The thought of telling him he's not wanted makes me sick, but the thought of having him around makes me sicker. What shall I do?—E.J.

Dear E.J.: Draw the lines early and firmly. Tell him you have a full schedule and heavy demands and when you have time to spend with him, you'll let him know.

The first time he drops in uninvited, tell him you're just leaving—then leave. You can always go to the grocery store.

The ideal solution would be to introduce him to a nice widow—preferably deaf.

Dear Ann Landers: Last evening a childless couple we've known well for years got to talking about their two Irish setters.

They insist dogs take on the moods and temperaments of the people they live with. This is crazy enough, but when they started to tell about the acquaintance whose pet basset hound suffered a nervous breakdown when his master became mentally ill—this was too much.

Your column seems to cover everything. Please tells us if these pet-lovers are so wrapped up in their little friends that they imagine all this — NOT BUYING.

Dear Not Buying: I've never heard of a dog who had to be psychoanimalized (cq) because his master had a nervous breakdown but in this day and age who am I to say anything is impossible?

Pets have distinct personalities, and all personalities—human as well as animal—are influenced by what happens around them.

Dear Ann: Should a minister with a Doctor of Divinity degree or a scholar with a Ph.D. be addressed as "Doctor?"

A friend of mine says it is correct to address only medical men as doctors. I say otherwise.—W.T.K.

Dear W.T.K.: It is proper to address as "Doctor" (both in writing and when speaking) a person who has earned his doctorate, whether in divinity, dentistry, medicine or philosophy, bio-chemistry, or whatever.

Although it is proper, some non-medical doctors do not wish to use the title. The sure way is to listen to the way the introduce themselves—or, better still, the way their wives introduce them.

What's Cooking

By LOUISE MOORE

There is something about the delicate flavor and aroma of grape jelly that makes it a favorite spread. If you have neglected to "put up" jams and jellies with earlier fruits don't overlook a few pots of this delicious sweet.

GRAPE JELLY

First prepare the juice—Stem about 3 quarts fully ripe grapes and crush thoroughly. Add ½ cup water; bring to boil and simmer, covered, 10 minutes. Place in jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 4 cups of the juice into a very large saucepan.

Concord grapes give the best color and flavor. If wild grapes, Malagas, or other tight-skinned grapes are used, use 3½ cups grape juice and add ¼ cup lemon juice.

Now make jelly—Add 7 cups (3 lbs.) sugar to juice in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. At once stir in ½ bottle liquid fruit pectin. Then bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

Remove from heat, skim off foam with metal spoon and pour quickly into jelly glasses. Cover at once with ⅛ inch thickness of hot paraffin.

PEPPER RELISH

Cut open 1 small tomato and discard seeds. Put tomato and 1 very small onion through food chopper using finest blade. Cut open about 1 dozen medium size peppers and discard seeds. (For best color use half green and half red sweet peppers).

Put peppers through food chopper twice using finest blade. Drain. Measure chopped tomato and onion, then add enough chopped peppers to make 2 cups prepared vegetables. Measure into a very large saucepan.

Add 1½ cups cider vinegar and 7 cups sugar (3 lbs.) to vegetables in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in 1 bottle liquid fruit pectin.

Skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim by turns for 5 minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating vegetables. Add 10 drops green food coloring and stir to blend. Ladle quickly into sterilized glasses, cover at once with ⅛ inch thickness hot paraffin.

Tips for Parents

By EDITH HENRY

There was Geoffrey on the front lawn kicking and screaming in a temper tantrum.

His mother tried unsuccessfully to make him stand upright. He just went limp as children have a fashion of doing.

It was a few minutes before nine o'clock, and the neighbors at their windows all knew what the trouble was. Geoffrey would not go to school.

★ ★ ★

This is a problem which, fortunately, does not occur in many families. When it does, it needs careful handling. What is done, and how it is done, affect the child's attitude to school where first days are important.

The problem may crop up on the first day. It may be a week or two when the behavior symptoms show up.

Asking yourself why the child hedges going to school may or may not reveal an answer.

★ ★ ★

It may be that the jump from the companionship and protection of his mother, or perhaps from a too adoring grandmother, is impossibly steep.

If this is so, the child is not to blame. We must "temper the wind to the shorn lamb."

Go to the teacher if you cannot manage yourself. Explain what is happening.

If there is a special reason for the child's dependence, such as a prolonged illness, explain.

If you judge yourself to have been an over-protective parent, an honest confession may be the best course to follow.

★ ★ ★

Ask for consideration. May you stay with your son or daughter for a short period each day till he gains courage to stay alone?

His courage will depend much on how happy he is at home, and how secure.

CWL

St. Andrew's Cathedral Council of the Catholic Women's League will meet on Tuesday, Sept. 6, in the parish hall at 8 p.m.

Dorothy E. White Bride of G. Bell

To make their home in Esquimalt are newlyweds Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Walter Bell. Couple were married in Esquimalt United Church recently by Rev. G. Howard Turpin. Bride, the former Dorothy Eveline, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick A. White of Victoria and her groom is son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bell of Regina. Groom is stationed in HMCS Stettler, Esquimalt.

A white and pink floral theme was used in the church for the candlelight service. Mrs. Alan Crouch arranged decorations. Mrs. Thomas Dixon, organist, played traditional music.

Bride entered the church on her father's arm. She was radiant wearing a gown of nylon sheer over satin. Basque bodice was enhanced by semi-scooped neckline trimmed with a flounce of French imported lace studded with irridescent sequins. Sleeves were lily point. The dipped waistline billowed into a floor-length hooped skirt adorned with lace appliques, sequins and rhinestones. Her veil of silk illusion was in finger-tip length. She wore a pearl necklace, gift of the groom, and carried a cascade of pink roses, white carnations and dusted ivy.

Identical waltz length gowns of pale turquoise nylon over taffeta were worn by Miss Janice Butler, maid of honor and Miss Eleanor Crouch, bridesmaid. Gowns were worn with matching turquoise headpieces trimmed with sequins. White chrysanthemums were in their bouquets. Sharon Bell, flower girl, wore a pale pink nylon frock with matching headpiece trimmed with sequins. She carried a miniature bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Best man was Brian Ball, and ushers were Alan Klockow and Ken Canfield.

A three-tier cake centred bridal table at the reception in Holyrood House following the double-ring ceremony. White candles and silver vases holding pink roses flanked the cake. Gladioli, pink carnations and chrysanthemums decorated tables. James Owens proposed the toast to the bride.

For a wedding trip up-Island and on the mainland, the new Mrs. Ball wore a blue and grey Blin and Blin suit trimmed with grey mink. Her hat was of pink petals and her accessories were in black.

Grisly Find Steps Up Hunt for Missing Man

Mystery Deepens In Seattle

SEATTLE (AP)—Police seeking the ex-wife and step-daughter of antique dealer Raoul Guy Rockwell stepped up their search for Rockwell himself yesterday, 24 hours after the remains of a young woman were found in a septic tank beneath the creaky old house where they lived.

The missing women were Mrs. Manzineta Rockwell, 40, and her daughter, Dolores Mearns, 18, a University of Washington student. They disappeared April 1.

OFF TO AFRICA

Rockwell, who had his antique shop and his home in the two-storey house on the Lake Union waterfront, told reporters in May he had won a Fulbright fellowship and was going to Africa.

In July, he divorced Mrs. Rockwell on grounds of desertion. Eight days later he married again, for the third time. Detectives said his first marriage also ended in divorce.

GRAND LARCENY

The step-mother of the third Mrs. Rockwell has brought a grand larceny complaint against the dealer, charging he kept $10,000 given him to buy Indian artifacts.

Police started looking for the two women after the co-ed's father, William Mearns of Vancouver, B.C., reported his ex-wife missing.

MONTHLY VISITS

Until April 1, he said, Mrs. Rockwell had made monthly visits to their two other children.

Two detectives discovered the remains of the young woman after noticing what appeared to be fresh cement on the septic tank in the half-finished basement.

MORE BODIES?

The King County coroner's office, examining the remains, said they were that of a young woman. The possibility that there were portions of two bodies was not ruled out.

At Vancouver, Mearns, father of Dolores Ann, has their two other daughters, Anita, 13, and Mavis, 7, living with him.

Liner Defies Strike

LIVERPOOL (UPI) — The Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France sailed Wednesday night despite a seamen's strike still tying up ships in all major British ports. The 20,400-ton ship carried no passengers but only cargo on its voyage to Montreal.

Keeping Them Alive

Husky muskox calf, one of six he rounded up in Northwest Territories 350 miles northeast of Edmonton, is held by naturalist Al Oeming while veterinary Dr. John McGowan looks on. Muskox herds are dying in north and Mr. Oeming will try to domesticate and breed them on his game farm near Edmonton.—(CP Photo.)

TV Debate Set in U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice-President Richard Nixon and Senator John Kennedy will appear jointly on all U.S. television and radio networks Sept. 26, Oct. 13 and Oct. 21 under arrangements made Wednesday. Tentative consideration is being given to Oct. 8 as a fourth date for the presidential candidates.

Triplets' Tricks Foiled by Army

WREXHAM, Wales (UPI)—The Smith triplets began a nine-month separation Wednesday — because they wanted to be together.

When John, Eric and their sister became 18 four years ago, the army called up John and Eric for a medical test. Eric flunked but John was scheduled for drafting. He disappeared.

Police picked up the two a year later. One said he was John. Police let the other walk away. It turned out the one held was Eric.

John was found but deserted, vanishing for three years until last month. At a court martial, the defence said John "feels a strong natural inclination to be with his brother."

The court martial was sympathetic, but sentenced John to nine months' detention.

Commonwealth

Legal Leaders Ottawa-Bound

OTTAWA (UPI)—Some 700 lawyers from all corners of the Commonwealth will flock to Ottawa next month for the second Commonwealth and Empire law conference.

Details of the week-long conference were disclosed Wednesday by chairman Senator John Connolly (L-Ontario) who said it would be of value to delegates from the under-developed nations and "might well be of some significance in world affairs."

The first conference was held in London, England, in 1955.

Major delegate will be Viscount Kilmuir, lord high chancellor of England, who will receive an honorary doctorate of laws degree from the University of Ottawa.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will address the delegates at a government dinner at the Chateau Laurier Sept. 19.

Subjects to be discussed at the conference include human rights and civil liberties, problems of federalism in the Commonwealth, restrictive trade practices and trends in legal education within the Commonwealth.

The leading delegation will be from England, with 397 lawyers attending. A conference official described Australia's 132-man delegation as "tremendous . . . quite fantastic."

Western RED CEDAR Bevel SIDING

"Keystone" clear kiln-dried siding is the finest available — a quality material for all applications where perfection is required.

THE LUMBER

Western red cedar lumber is noted for its exceptional durability, light weight and beautiful color, ranging from almost pure white of the narrow sapwood to reddish brown heartwood. It is very easily worked, is free from pitch, takes and holds stains, paints and enamels excellently, and is superior for glueing. Because of these qualities, Western red cedar is especially adaptable for use as bevel siding for quality homes.

DURABILITY

Western red cedar is one of the most durable species known. Its heartwood is highly resistant to decay, and can be counted on for long and worthy service where conditions favoring decay prevail.

WEATHERING CHARACTERISTICS

Left exposed without paint or other protective finishes, Western red cedar weathers to an intriguing grey color having little or no sheen. It is one of the most stable species of lumber, having very little tendency to cup and pull loose from fastenings when exposed to the weather.

INSULATING QUALITIES

Western red cedar has the highest insulating value of all commonly-used soft woods — another point in its favor as siding, and of particular importance when used as roof decking.

Survive Nuclear Age?

Back World Court Canadian Bar Urges U.S., Reds

WASHINGTON (CP)—Renault St. Laurent, president of the Canadian Bar Association, yesterday urged the United States and Russia to give full support to the International Court of Justice, saying the rule of law must apply among nations if civilization and humanity are to survive in the nuclear age.

"National disarmament and the rule of law between nations must come hand in hand," said the Quebec lawyer, son of former Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, in a speech before the 8,000 delegates of the American Bar Association's annual meeting.

U.S. POSITION

The association is locked in controversy on the question of whether to support or oppose an American law which in effect gives the U.S. a veto over the International Court. President Eisenhower has repeatedly urged Congress to eliminate this restrictive power but without success.

In the past the association sided with the president on the issue but this year a special committee split on the problem and tossed it into the general body for a vote in the next day or two.

POWER CITED

St. Laurent suggested modern science has created such terrifying power "that the use of force to settle international disputes has really ceased to be a practical proposition."

"What we have today is an unstable balance of terror. Yet no great nation is going willingly to give up its own forces without the assurance that its neighbors, like itself, will be subject to a rule of law and subject to a law which is enforceable. In other words, national disarmament and the rule of law between nations must come hand in hand."

CRITICAL FRIENDS

Touching on Canada-U.S. relations, St. Laurent said that when Canadians criticize the U.S., "we criticize you as neighbors and friends."

"Whatever criticism we may have from time to time is a criticism of method and of detail. When it comes to the fundamentals, the things that really matter, most thoughtful Canadians are deeply grateful for the course the United States has followed in world affairs since 1945."

Forest Fires Set National Record

OTTAWA (UPI)—A record number of forest fires which destroyed more than 628,000 acres of timberland was recorded in Canada during July, the northern affairs department said Wednesday.

The 2,867 fires broke the previous record of 2,410 set in May, 1932. Most were in western Canada.

The World Health Organization had a total of 99 full and associate members in May, 1960.

That Strange Affinity!

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

I have written several times in this column on the strange affinity some plants seem to have for one another—the way corn and beans, for instance, make better growth and heavier crops when mixed together on the same ground rather than sown in separate rows. I am beginning to think now that similar affinities exist in the world of flowers.

This may be imagination on my part. It is possible that the growth is not actually better in the mixed groupings of my perennial border, but certainly they look better, and several of these combinations I have been trying have turned out to be really delightful.

★ ★ ★

As an example of what I mean, I have one mixed clump made up of three plants of pale blue Chimney Bellflower centred by a hearty growth of Shasta Daisy "Aglaia." The Bellflowers grow up, through, and around the rather stiff growth of the Shasta Daisy, and so soften its stiff outline, while the combination of small blue flowers and large white ones always attracts the attention of visitors to my garden.

Another highly successful blue-and-white clump is made up of Delphinium Blue Butterfly and Shasta Daisy Esther Reid.

The little red Delphinium called nudicaule is a charming plant while in flower, but the blooming season is rather short and the plants have a tendency to become leggy.

★ ★ ★

I have given Delphinium nudicaule a running mate now in the form of four plants of perennial flowering flax, Linum narbonense, and the red-and-blue combination is the prettiest thing imaginable. Incidentally, both plants are quite easy to raise from seed.

We are very fond of Peonies in our family, but their very short season of bloom is a constant annoyance in the perennial border. The partner chosen in this case is the Geranium — not the Pelargonium commonly called Geranium, but the true Cranesbill. Their flowering season comes along just as the Peonies are passing out of bloom and their leaf growth is light enough to blend with the larger, heavier foliage of the Peony without undue overcrowding. The true hardy Geraniums have a very long season of bloom and are available in blue and pink varieties.

It is a fairly common garden trick to grow a Clematis up an old apple or laburnum tree, so it appears that the one tree blooms twice in the year. We tried this stunt with our Buddleias but, with the common annual Climbing Nasturtium, just pushing the seeds into the ground under the bushes. The Buddleia is not a very handsome bush when out of bloom, but you would never recognize it while wreathed with Nasturtiums.

One more combination which has worked out well in our garden is the tall Michaelmas Daisy interplanted with the Hawthorn-scented Mugwort, Artemisia lactiflora. Both plants bloom at the same time and the feathery, creamy, sweetly scented plumes of the Mugwort are pleasantly cool among the rich colors of the modern Michaelmas Daisies.

This Is Europe — By Ernest Waengler

Workers' Fund Overflows

West Germany's Unemployment Insurance Commission is faced with an enviable embarrassment; what to do with rapidly accumulating funds contributed by employers and employees which cannot be paid out because there are hardly any unemployed.

Reserves have built up to almost $1,000,000,000 and the government is now considering a reduction of contributions or possibly even to stop collecting unemployment insurance contributions for a while.

West German unemployment figures were recently given at 119,000, with 524,000 vacant jobs waiting to be filled. However, closer scrutiny of the unemployment figure discloses that 100,000 of those listed as unemployed were either persons in the process of changing from one job to another on the day the numbers were computed or persons classed as "conditionally employable" because of age or state of health.

Since the beginning of this year, 66,000 Italians, Greeks and Spaniards were brought to Germany to relieve the work shortage. Applications by employers for 29,000 additional foreign workers are now being processed.

★ ★ ★

One of labor-starved Europe's main sources of transient workers is drying up.

Italy reports 1,480,000 jobless, 15 per cent less than a year ago. Experts believe that here, too, the actual number of people out of work is much smaller than indicated by official figures, since many Italians in jobs register as unemployed in order to find better positions.

The number of genuine unemployed is estimated at under 800,000.

This may be one of the causes for the recent drop in Italian immigration to Canada.

★ ★ ★

Paris taxi drivers will soon have to give up their time-honored habit of charging more than the meter shows.

Municipal police authorities have issued an order that by January 1, 1961, all meters have to be fixed in such a manner that they show the proper amount.

By that date, a sign must be put up in the interior of the car saying: "The meter of this car has been set to show the actual amount payable. The tip, which is non-compulsory, is not included in that amount."

★ ★ ★

Budapest, which was the scene of some of the heaviest destruction in the last war, has once again been bombed from the air—this time by insecticides.

Inaugurating a three-day battle against mosquitoes, planes dropped bombs loaded with DDT on the Hungarian capital after inhabitants had been warned to keep all doors and windows closed during the raid.

Beekeepers and fish breeders had to construct temporary air raid shelters for their charges.

No Quebec Patronage — New Boss Tough

Liquor 'Tolerance' Gone?

By JOHN WALSH

MONTREAL — For a man sitting squarely on top of a political powder keg, Lucien Dugas is strangely unperturbed.

The new top man of the Quebec Liquor Commission is apparently happy in his job.

"There is to be absolutely no patronage, tolerance or whatever you want to call it," the 58-year-old lawyer said in his first interview since he took over the reins of the multi-million dollar organization. "The government wants it that way and I'm going to see that it operates that way."

★ ★ ★

Dugas is a tough former criminal lawyer from the home town of his boss, Attorney General Georges Lapalme. He practised law with Lapalme and was member for Joliette when the Liberals' heads were lopped off by the Union Nationale sweep in 1945.

Already Dugas has shown that the commission, under his administration, has teeth and knows how to use them. Liquor outlets that haven't held close to the law have had their liquor seized and are deprived of their rights.

★ ★ ★

Those operated without benefit of licence—but under the "tolerance" of the Union Nationale prior to the June 22 Liberal victory—have folded their tents and gone out of business.

Dugas works with whirlwind speed. He gives curt "yes" and "no" answers and hates prolonged telephone conversations.

"I'm too busy to talk," he told one caller who managed to get a call through during the interview, "I told you that is handled by one of the departments."

The former member of the Quebec legislature isn't however, the hatchet man some people would like him to be.

"Those who obey the law and who live up to the regulations are perfectly safe," he said. "I'm not out to punish anyone.

"We'll have to be satisfied first that there is a legitimate need for a liquor-selling establishment," he said, "and then we will check the morals of the person making the request.

"If either of those requirements is lacking—then it's no permit."

★ ★ ★

In the past crackdowns have been aimed at city establishments while clubs and cabarets were unmolested in the country.

"There is to be one set of regulations for everyone," he declared. "If the law is a certain hour, then that's the hour everyone will close."

How about the statement that there will be no more criminals with liquor licences?

"That comes under the investigation of one's morals," he replied.

More than one licence to an individual?

"I'd be against that," he said, "provided they were in the same city."

★ ★ ★

Dugas' task is one that could make him the target of political friend and foe alike. The Quebec Liquor Commission always has been recognized as the patronage outlet of the Quebec government and party stalwarts have received their rewards in liquor permits.

Will political influence have anything to do with the future granting of licences?

"You know the stand the government has taken," he replied. "There is to be no tolerance anywhere along the line."

Hollywood Today — By Sheilah Graham

Dolores del Rio Still Beauty

HOLLYWOOD (NANA)—They say in London that Stewart Granger will remarry his first wife, Elspeth, mother of his two tall, teen-age children. Granger's reasons for leaving Hollywood and Arizona, and setting up tax-free residence in Switzerland: "It would be embarrassing to bump into Jean (Simmons) at Hollywood parties." There is nothing too friendly about this divorce . . . As I itemed some time ago, Jean will be marrying writer-director Richard Brooks who did such a good job with "Elmer Gantry," in which Jean starred with Burt Lancaster.

★ ★ ★

Photographs from London show Shirley Maclaine with a double chin. Shirley is usually thin between babies. I wonder?

★ ★ ★

Bobby Darin records an album and a filmed interview for the BBC before flying to Italy next month for his "Come September" love-making to Sandra Dee in the Rock Hudson-Gina Lollobrigida starrer.

★ ★ ★

Dolores del Rio, still beautiful and now playing mama to Elvis Presley in "Black Star"—formerly titled "Flaming Heart," and also "Flaming Lance"—will produce the Jean Pierre Aumont dramatization of the Irwin Shaw book, "Lucy Brown," in her native Mexico and South America . . . and Col. Tom Parker confides that his boy Presley will be seen as a half-breed in the Texas of 1870, with Barbara Steele—who once caught the appreciative eye of Cary Grant—as the girl he loves.

★ ★ ★

Now that precocious Tuesday Weld has declined to play nymphet "Lolita," she has decided that college is more important and is taking three hours of tutoring a day. Just turned 17, Tuesday is buying textbooks on ethnic anthropology and basic Russian. A far cry from nymphets and such!

★ ★ ★

When James Mason, who plays Humbert Humbert in the controversial novel, was asked, "How about your 12-year-old daughter Porty for the part of Lolita?" he grinned and replied, "I don't think so." Actually I doubt that Porty has "the awareness of sex" the part calls for.

★ ★ ★

Norah Eddington is the only wife of the late Errol Flynn who is not rich through her marriage to him. First wife Lili Damita was paid a $300,000 settlement, plus support for their son. Last wife Pat Wymore has a packet of dollars from Flynn's best seller, "My Wicked, Wicked Ways." But Norah was so short of cash she had to ask the court for $10,000 of the Flynn funds for her daughters, as a down payment on a $39,000 home. She's hoping to make some living money from her book, "My Life With Errol Flynn."

★ ★ ★

Frank Sinatra has been asked by Sammy Davis to be his best man at Sammy's wedding with Mai Britt on October 5. Chances are he will be. I'm still not holding my breath for this marriage to take place, although I am assured it will.

★ ★ ★

No one knows except Linda Christian, and one other, why her book collaborator, Billy Kelly, dropped the project. Linda will go it alone. All she needs, like most articulate females, is a tape recorder and a typist—and a sympathetic listener.

King Fisherman Contest

Quality Good, Quantity Low

* * *

August Crests Real Test

Anglers may have reason to complain a bit about the quantity of salmon in Vancouver Island waters this year but there is nothing wrong with the quality.

This is particularly true of August. Entries in The Daily Colonist King Fisherman Contest show that any angler winning one of the 25 crests given each month for the largest fish in each contest division will be able to do a mite of boasting.

With complete August entries not likely to be processed before another week or 10 days, it is already certain that a coho of at least 11 pounds and a spring of at least 30 pounds will be needed to win a crest in those divisions. And, as has already been announced, anyone who has entered a tyee of less than 51 pounds has no chance of an August crest, will have to try again this month.

Grunt, Gurgle To Cost $488

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver city council has refused to pay $488 for the services of Grunt and Gurgle.

Gurgle, a firebarge, and Grunt, a tugboat, lent assistance in the city's $3,000,000 False Creek fire July 3. Their owners, Gulf of Georgia Towing Company, presented the bill.

Retarded Children Class Still Open

So far only 20 have enrolled in Greater Victoria school board's special classes for retarded children, despite an earlier announcement that the board is prepared to accommodate 30 in three classes.

It's not too late for parents to come forward if they wish their child to receive special training offered by the board, school superintendent John Gough said yesterday.

But he added: "We would welcome hearing early as a guide to setting up adequate staff and equipment."

The board has already hired two specially-trained teachers and is set to get a third if last-minute registrations warrant it. At present it is planned to operate two classes of 10 pupils each.

Children attending the special classes at 1075 Joan Crescent should report at 9 a.m. Tuesday when schools open.

47 Old Masters Going on Display

The finest collection of Old Masters ever seen in Victoria, and bird paintings by the city's Fenwick Lansdowne, will be on display at the Greater Victoria Art Gallery starting Sept. 15.

B.C. Oarsmen Spark Great Day at Olympics

British Columbia had a great day at the Olympic Games yesterday.

Frank Reid's University of British Columbia eight-oared crew and Vancouver sprinter Harry Jerome aren't gold medal winners yet, but yesterday they turned in performances which showed just why they have been rated as the brightest hopes for Canadian victory at Rome.

UBC's oarsmen, only one of whom was in the crew which won a silver medal in the 1956 Games at Melbourne, came up with the shocker of the day by outpulling the favored U.S. Naval Academy eight by a length in a heat victory which put them into the final.

Getting the kind of weather they are used to—a stiff breeze made it choppy going—the British Columbians not only won the race but their time of 6.03.18 was faster than the clocking of any Olympic winner since 1928.

By comparison, the German and Czechoslovakian crews, who also won their heats to reach the final, were clocked in 6.03.34.

Behind Canada and the U.S. in the heat were Russia, Italy, Denmark and Spain. Losers in all three heats will get a second chance in the repechages, with three boats to join the three heat-winners for the final.

Jerome, co-holder of the world 100-metres record of 10 seconds with Germany's Armin Hary, won both his heats yesterday to qualify for the semi-finals.

The slim but husky Canadian ace won his first heat handily in 10.5 seconds, but it was tougher the second time out. He leaned into the tape to get the judges' decision in a blanket finish with Peter Radford of England, A. Seye of France and S. Antao of Kenya. All four were timed in 10.4 seconds but Seye was placed fourth—and eliminated.

Victoria's Lynn Eves was eliminated in his first heat, placing fourth when starry Dave Sime of the U.S. came up fast to barely qualify with a third-place finish. Eves was timed in 10.8 seconds. (Complete details on Page 12.)

'REDS BUSY IN NEW PARTY' BUCK TAUNT RILES STRACHAN

'Focus Opinion On Disarming'

NELSON (CP)—Nuclear disarmament must be agreed upon before civilization is wiped out "by some irresponsible junior or someone making a mistake," External Affairs Minister Green said Tuesday.

"The only way that this arms race can be stopped is to focus world opinion . . . through the United Nations."

Saanich Candidate Cites CCF's Labor Loophole

★ ★ ★

CCF leader Robert Strachan last night angrily charged that either an old-line party or big business "probably paid" Canadian Communist leader Tim Buck to say that Communists were taking an active part in the formation of the new CCF-labor political alliance.

"It's dirty, how dirty can they get," thundered Mr. Strachan in Prince Rupert when The Daily Colonist informed him that Mr. Buck had stated 60 members of his Communist party were campaigning within the ranks of labor in negotiations on a merger with the CCF.

PRIMED UNIONISTS

Mr. Buck said about one-third of his members were hiding their political allegiance to avoid being expelled. The infiltrators, he said, were trade unionists primed with communist schooling.

The country's top Red said the infiltrators' main aim was to have the proposed political party revoke its ban on communism before the official merger next August.

"Mr. Buck is obviously mentally incompetent," said Mr. Strachan.

'BIG BUSINESS'

"Big business in this province has become so desperate to try to prevent a CCF victory that it would not surprise me that when the truth comes out we find that big business in this province has paid Mr. Buck to do this."

The CCF leader charged that the Communists were always ready to make a deal with anyone if it suited their purpose, as was big business always willing to make a deal with anyone to gain its ends.

NO PLACE

"There is no place in the CCF for Communists and there never will be as long as I am CCF leader," declared Mr. Strachan.

In a later statement he charged that Mr. Buck had become the "pawn of Mr. Bennett, Wenner-Gren and his other allies."

SAANICH REPLY

In reply to a question at the all-candidate forum at Brentwood last night Saanich CCF candidate Pat Thomas admitted there were Communists in the CCF.

But he warned this should not be misconstrued by the public that the CCF "welcomed" such individuals who managed to infiltrate into the CCF ranks through their positions in certain groups within organized labor.

JODOIN REPLY

Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin described as "complete untruths" the statements by Mr. Buck.

"Mr. Buck, I presume, would say anything," said Mr. Jodoin.

Asked if the 1,000,000-member CLC or the CCF feared Communist infiltration in the new party at all he said:

"HAVE NO FEAR"

"We have no fear of that. The CLC and its affiliates operate under the democratic system which Mr. Buck knows nothing about.

"The Canadian labor movement is very clean."

Stanley Knowles, executive vice-president of the CLC, former member of Parliament for the CCF and a prime mover in the formation of the new party, said simply: "It's nonsense."

Referring to Mr. Buck's statement that the immediate aim of the infiltrators is to have the proposed political party revoke its ban on communism, Mr. Knowles said:

"The suggestion that any such plan could succeed is sheer nonsense.

PARTY ON GUARD

"The new party is on guard against any such infiltration," he added.

Mr. Buck also stated that Communists are attending educational conferences called by CCF-labor negotiators in preparation for the amalgamation convention next year.

"The top CCF leaders have refused to allow the Communist Party any part in the new amalgamation movement," said Mr. Buck, "so we are bringing our influence to bear from without through our trade unionist members who are being included in the new political party.

PRIVATE ARENA

He said the Communist Party has been knocking on the door of the CCF-labor merger to provide a private arena where Communists and more moderate Socialists can settle their differences and present a united political front.

Mr. Buck, who is in B.C. to support 19 Communist candidates in the Sept. 12 election, said he will ask the party to replace him, after 31 years as national secretary.

WANTS TO RETIRE

He will be 70 in January and admitted that he would like to hand the party leadership to a younger successor.

Mr. Buck confided that he will request retirement at the party national convention in November and seek a position as a travelling speaker and a teacher in party schools across Canada.

Maritimers Flee Fire Disaster

HALIFAX (CP)—A 100-square-mile area of western Prince Edward Island was declared a disaster area Wednesday night as forest fires continued uncontrolled and residents were reported suffering from severe bronchial congestion from smoke.

Police began moving women and children from all villages to Summerside, 25 miles from the fires, and planned to continue the evacuation until all people affected by the smoke were removed.

Winds were increasing as firefighters tried vainly to check fresh outbreaks. More than 100 men and all available equipment have been fighting the fires since Sunday.

Schools, open for about two weeks, were closed in some areas, and workmen left their jobs when fire destroyed five homes and 21 barns.

About 400 residents of the southern Newfoundland communities of Jean de Baie, Spanish Room and Rocky Harbor were preparing to evacuate their homes in the face of a 1,000-acre fire.

In Nova Scotia an outbreak in western Cape Breton was reported burning a mile wide and heading for the tiny village of Grand Anse.

★ ★ ★

Fire Exodus 'Just Like Wartime'

QUEBEC (CP)—Villagers streamed out of two more Gaspe Peninsula towns Wednesday as a 14-day-old forest fire continued its rampage in Gaspe South County.

A policeman said it looked something like pictures of Second World War refugees fleeing towns under bombardment.

"Among the evacuees were families of 10, 12 and even 14 children," the policeman said. "They lost everything."

PREMIER DOUGLAS

★ ★ ★

Nanaimo Ovation

Cheers, Songs Greet Tommy

NANAIMO — A heckler-free crowd of more than 1,100 voters last night greeted diminutive Saskatchewan Premier Tommy Douglas with a standing ovation, then after his speech rose as a man to sing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

In perhaps the largest election meeting ever staged here, Mr. Douglas quickly won the audience over to his side as he slashed statements made by Premier Bennett.

Mr. Douglas, likely new leader of the CCF-labor political party, spoke in support of Nanaimo CCF candidate Colin Cameron and CCF leader Robert Strachan, who was not present.

He said industry doesn't come to a province because "the premier has a nice sweet smile or they like the looks of a cabinet minister. They come because a province has resources they can't get elsewhere and they hope to process them and get a return on their money.

"They come to Saskatchewan because we say that for a long time yet there will be a mixed economy—private enterprise, co-operative enterprise and public enterprise.

"But in Saskatchewan industry will not be allowed to exploit labor or our resources without giving the people who own them adequate rewards for their use.

"The mere fact a province has wealth doesn't mean anything unless wealth benefits the people to whom it belongs."

Neighboring States Blunt with Lumumba

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—African neighbors bluntly told Premier Patrice Lumumba's government Wednesday to stop harassing the United Nations and to co-operate with UN efforts to end the chaos within this two-month-old nation.

The setback for Lumumba in the conference of independent African states coincided with a report from Elisabethville of reverses for his troops in their campaign against rebels in Kasai province.

Free Road to Berlin Repudiated by Reds

BERLIN (UPI)—East Germany today repudiated four-power agreements giving the West free access to West Berlin and continued tightening its restrictions on traffic to the isolated city, despite a sharp Allied protest.

Claim that the four-power compacts were null and void was made by deputy foreign minister Otto Winzer, who maintained East Germany was a sovereign state, not bound by legal obligations contracted by the Soviet Union.

The Russians remained silent.

The new crackdown on travel aimed at keeping "agitators" from entering West Berlin to attend a four-day refugee rally.

The Communists refrained from interfering with rail and air traffic crossing the 110-mile corridor from West Germany, but turned back some cars and subjected others to long waits.

Baffling Speeder In Skies

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (AP) — A mysterious reddish object circling the earth has been photographed by a tracking camera of the Grumman Aviation Engineering Corporation.

It's a tenth the size of the Echo 1 balloon satellite and travelling twice as fast. It doesn't appear to be an artificial satellite or a meteor.

Twin Cities

Political Pot Starts Boiling

PORT ALBERNI—The political pot is on the boil in the Twin Cities as provincial election candidates, after warming up in the outlying areas of the constituency, turn on the heat here for the final 12-days of the campaign.

Zeballos and some of the other more remote outposts of the riding have had visitors who talked of access roads to bring the residents closer to the world's problems. Ucluelet and Tofino have entertained all five candidates.

BETTER ACCESS

CCF candidate John Squire told West Coast voters that industrial and tourist development indicate that the standard of and access provisions of the Alberni-Tofino highway demand improvement.

Other subjects touched on by Mr. Squire included Port Albion's lack of a road and the importance of public power to the residents of the West Coast.

TORY SPEAKS

Conservative Ron Lyon also spent the weekend in the Ucluelet-Tofino district

Liberal Alan McKenzie has arranged two public meetings to be held in the Alberni Valley this week.

This evening he will tell his plans for a Liberal province in Beaver Creek Community Hall at 8.30. The next evening at the same time, another public Liberal meeting will be held in Port Legion Hall. George Gregory of Victoria will offer his experienced comments and support the local candidate.

LOTS OF SPEECHES

Other open meetings include Mr. Squire's on Tuesday, Sept. 6, in Port Legion Hall at 8 p.m., when Grace McInnes, former MLA and longtime member of the CCF, will be guest speaker.

Lands and Forests Minister Roy Williston will bring his audience up to date on Social Credit accomplishments when he appears on the platform at Elks' Hall on Sept. 2 with Mr. Duncan.

TIM BUCK

Mr. Mosher will have the LPP veterans Tim Buck and Nigel Morgan at the Eric Graf Hall at 8 p.m. today. An added attraction and an antidote for politics will be folk singer Perry Friedman.

An all-candidate rally will be held in Barclay Hotel on Sept. 7.

Mr. Lyon has spoken to Ucluelet-Tofino Chamber of Commerce members in the hopes of promoting an all-candidate meeting on the West Coast.

Huge Coho Landed

Ties Contest Leader

17-Pound Coho Raises Hopes For Cowichan Bay Season

DUNCAN—The annual coho run hasn't come into Cowichan Bay yet, but already a "good-sized" fish has been landed.

Fishermen feel that although the run is not expected for several weeks it gives an indication it will be a good, large one.

Geoffrey Mayea, 163 Second, landed a 17-pound, four-ounce coho at Cowichan Bay yesterday morning while mooching with herring strip.

Several other coho have been caught, but for this time of year it is felt Mayea's is large. It ties for top spot the coho division of the Colonist King Fisherman contest.

Maple Bay, Labor Day

Yachters Want Sun For Big Regatta

MAPLE BAY — Yacht club members are hoping for sunshine and more than 100 boats to race in the annual regatta on Labor Day weekend, the last races of the season.

They start Saturday morning at 10 o'clock, when the first of three heats of Dragon class boats open the races. Other starting times for this class are 2.30 p.m. on Saturday and 10 a.m. Sunday.

BIG ONES

Probably the most spectacular for spectators will be the eight-metre craft, among the largest sailing ships on local waters, trying for the Olsen Trophy, starting at 2.10 p.m.

These two classes will be followed with the club's most formal dance of the year.

PRETTY SIGHT

On Sunday, starting at 10 a.m. most of the races begin to fill the six-mile triangular course with sails.

Among the trophies to be awarded will be the Lipton Trophy, provided annually by the Royal Victoria Yacht Club at the request of the club here, for two long laps by cruisers.

Robin Piers is head of the regatta committee.

Six New Schools Planned in Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP)—Jim Thorpe, school district engineer here, said Tuesday six new schools are planned for the Nanaimo area in the next three to six years. The proposals, he said, are based on figures compiled by the department of education. The projects include a 300-student high school at Wellington and a 300-student junior-senior high school at Cedar.

Squire Challenges Socred Statement

PORT ALBERNI — John Squire, CCF candidate in Alberni constituency, said here today that a statement made by Education Minister Leslie Peterson as quoted in newspaper stories of a recent meeting should be refuted.

He was referring to Mr. Peterson's alleged claim that B.C.'s aid to university students in the matter of loans is the best of any in Canada. According to Mr. Squire, B.C. provincial loans to university students carry an interest rate of 5½ per cent from the date of issue.

In Saskatchewan, he said, the government gives loans free of interest and during the past 10 years more than 5,000 students have taken advantage of the loans.

Cowichan Lake Clash Slated For Strachan, Lady Socred

COWICHAN LAKE—CCF Leader Robert Strachan and Socred candidate Mrs. Hazel Fee will square off at a joint meeting here Sept. 10.

Kiwanis Club member L. R. Gaisford said final approval had been received from both parties yesterday for the meeting at 8 p.m. in the Elks Hall.

Conservative John Kerrone said he could not be present because, as president of the Cowichan Exhibition, he would be too busy on its final day.

Several other political meetings are planned for this district.

Only two other public meetings have been scheduled for CCF leader Robert Strachan in his own riding. On Sept. 6 he speaks at an all-party meeting in the Duncan Eagles Hall at 8 p.m. and three days later he will be at Ladysmith, in the Native Sons Hall.

National leader of the Communist Party, Tim Buck, and B.C. leader Nigel Morgan, will appear with Cowichan-Newcastle Communist candidate Hjalmar Bergren at Lake Cowichan, Sunday in the Elks Hall at 8 p.m.

Russ Brown, minister of industry and hydro power for Saskatchewan, will talk on "The Truth About Saskatchewan" Friday at the Knights of Pythias Hall at Duncan at 8 p.m.

Happy Ending

Son Gordon Did A-Fishing Go

By BEA HAMILTON

FULFORD—Here is a fish story with a surprise attached: Henry Ruckle Sr., pioneer of Beaver Point, lost the crank handle from the engine whilst he was a-fishing, so son Gordon next evening went out with a Norwegian jig, with the intention of using it for a grappling hook.

Whilst he was jigging for the handle, a 24-pound spring hit the hook and Gordon had a surprise—and a fish!

He didn't succeed in finding the crank handle.

"Who cares about a silly old crank handle at a time like this?" says Mrs. G. Ruckle, who had visitors from the East (her sister, Mrs. A. C. McCullum, and the Rev. A. C. McCullum, from Kingston, Ont., and others). The visitors all went home full of fish—and a real fish story.

Next Sunday, Sept. 4, is the annual salmon derby at Fulford — local residents and visitors are debating on the idea of jigging for a prize-winner spring.

C. Renecker Found Dead In Cottage

COURTENAY — Coroner Thomas Menzies was to conduct an inquiry today into the death of Charles E. Renecker, 65, a well-known figure in the Comox Valley and in Shriners' circles for many years.

A neighbor found Renecker's body last night in the small cottage where he lived alone. Police said a rifle and a note from the deceased were discovered beside him.

In recent years he had suffered considerable pain from an arthritic condition of the back, police said.

Renecker at one time was a downtown businessman in Courtenay and also was one of the Comox Logging Company's first riggers. He was a member of Hiram Lodge, Cyrus Chapter, a Shriner, and a member of the Bethlehem Preceptory in Nanaimo and of the Cryptic Right.

Funeral services will be held Friday from Piercy's Funeral Home, with Rev. Anderson of Foursquare Gospel Church officiating.

B.C. TURKEY MAKES A LABOR DAY TREAT

Young B.C. turkeys are so tender, so flavourful and so downright economical that you'll want to begin now to develop your own repertoire of turkey dishes. There are dozens of ways to serve B.C. turkey. And you'll especially love the variety of sizes — to suit every family and budget.

AN IMPORTANT B.C. INDUSTRY

The poultry farmers of British Columbia are independent business men striving to produce the finest poultry and eggs at the lowest possible prices. They contribute over $24,000,000 a year to the economy of our province, but their importance cannot be measured in dollars alone. Poultry farming is a vital part of our agricultural industry and B.C. poultry products are among the best in the world.

NEW WAYS TO COOK B.C. YOUNG TURKEYS

Oven-Barbecued Turkey

One of the easiest, most delicious ways to serve B.C. young turkey is in an oven-barbecue. Allow about 2½ hours to prepare a turkey cut in pieces.

Step one.— about 20 minutes. Lightly brown turkey in salad oil, butter or fat.

Step two — about 1 hour. Arrange in single layer in shallow oven pan. Lightly season with salt, pepper and paprika. Bake at 325°F. Baste with a mixture of butter and giblet broth. Allow 1 tbsp. each per pound of turkey.

Step three — about ½ to 1 hour. Baste with barbecue sauce, turning once or twice to crisp and brown evenly.

Roast Young B.C. Turkey

Thaw, if necessary. Allow about 5 hours per pound if thawing in refrigerator. Wipe with clean, damp cloth. Stuff, if desired. Place breast down on rack, crossed skewers or forks to keep off bottom of pan and allow heat to circulate. Butter the back of the turkey and roast at 325°F. Allow 3½ — 4 hours for a stuffed B.C. turkey weighing 8-10 lbs.

Note: Plan to remove bird from oven 20 to 30 minutes ahead of serving. It will carve more easily.

Basting. When some fat has collected in roasting pan add 1 tbsp. of B.C. Honey. From time to time baste bird. Half way through cooking time, turn breast up.

To keep moist. Cover with brown paper that has been greased on both sides.

Stuffing. Allow 1 cup of bread crumbs per pound eviscerated weight. Lightly fry 1 or 2 finely chopped onions (about a cup) in ¼ cup of butter. Add 8 cups (1-24 oz. loaf) bread crumbs. Mix well with onion, turn off heat and season with ½ tsp. salt, pepper, and about a tsp. thyme. Stuff bird with hot dressing — you will cut down on cooking time and increase flavour.

B.C. Poultry and Eggs are one of your most economical sources of best quality protein. Wise housewives know that if they buy the B.C. foods in season they can afford to dine royally all the year round . . . even to "chicken every Sunday."

Socialists Won't Get Their Little Hyde Park

City council parks committee yesterday opposed allowing a corner of Beacon Hill Park to become a little Hyde Park.

The Victoria local of the Socialist Party of Canada asked permission to present speeches in a park field every Sunday afternoon as long as the weather remains warm.

"We should say it's against the policy of council," said chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney.

"I don't think there has been any policy," said City Manager C. C. Wyatt, "although there has been discussion of whether or not we should have a Hyde Park corner."

But Ald. Mooney maintained a policy had been followed "against allowing such public speaking in the park," and the committee voted to reject the request.

The committee also:

● Granted the request of the Victoria Cycling Club for permission to have a bicycle race in Beacon Hill Park Saturday afternoon, despite opposition from the police chief, on grounds of danger, and from assistant parks administrator Clifford Bate, who said the main parking lot would be cut off and traffic jammed.

● Decided to suggest to Victoria University that a regulation track on the university campus would be a welcome addition to Greater Victoria facilities.

● Asked for a report on possibilities of improving traffic direction in Beacon Hill Park—"It is only a matter of time before drastic steps will have to be taken to protect this park for pedestrians for whom it was designed and intended," a report from administrator W. H. Warren said.

Not Funny, Says Mayor

Beacon Hill Paradise For Bulb-Snatchers

Beacon Hill, with its ornamental lighting, has become a bulb-snatchers' paradise.

And that's not funny, Mayor Percy Scurrah said yesterday.

"Special attention will be paid to the park," he said. "If anyone is caught destroying equipment or stealing bulbs, we will throw the book at them."

The parks department reported that in August, thieves and vandals stole 114 light bulbs, smashed six more, and threw seven into Goodacre Lake.

Other vandalism included overturning 21 seats, throwing two garbage cans into the lake, trampling begonias behind the bandshell, and smashing two panes of glass and damaging a drinking fountain.

Too Fast for Police, Driver Finally Fined

DUNCAN — The man police couldn't catch had his drivers' licence suspended for 14 days in court here yesterday for speeding up to 80 miles an hour on the highway racing to get the Nanaimo ferry.

Walter R. Howay, Victoria, pleaded not guilty and was fined $50 for speeding Aug. 19 south of town.

Police said in court Howay was doing 80 and a highway patrol car only caught him when he slowed to 65 miles an hour.

Socialism Threat

Wake Up—or Else Chant Warns B.C.

LADYSMITH—Works Minister W. N. Chant said last night that the people of B.C. and the Western world had better wake up or they will have to shut up.

"Communism is nothing but Socialism rammed down your throat," he told 20 persons at a meeting supporting Cowichan-Newcastle Socred candidate Mrs. Hazel Fee.

In an hour-long speech that he said was more like a private talk, Mr. Chant said an English businessman told him several years ago that the Western world lacks a dynamic idea, and that he feared the advance of Socialism within the next few years.

"Socialism is something that you can't whitewash. The road to hell is paved with good intentions. The time is rapidly coming to an end," he said. "In the next 10 years, if the Western world doesn't wake up, we will be forced to do business the way Russia wants us to."

Later he said, "Either we're going to have to wake up or shut up."

His impassioned speech against Socialism, which referred to twice as Marxist Socialism, was in the home riding of CCF leader Robert Strachan.

On the provincial scene, he said the promises being made by "other" parties "are right up in mid-air . . . between heaven and hell."

"They have brought together all the promises of the past and present, and some anyone could think of," said Mr. Chant.

On unemployment he said: "We are all sympathetic with the anguish and frustrations they must suffer. We are all made of the same stuff. But for a party to get up and say they alone are filled with the humanities is a lot of foolishness."

Mr. Chant said he feels that the answer is the dynamic Social Credit doctrine of a monetary system co-ordinated with the production and distribution of the province.

Sunday Night

Total Eclipse May Be Seen

Given clear skies over Victoria Sunday night there'll be an opportunity to see a total eclipse of the moon.

No scientific observations will be made through the giant telescope at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain, officials said yesterday.

The moon will be low in the southwest sky and the earth's shadow will start moving across its face at 8.36 p.m. This partial phase of the eclipse continues until there is "totality" at 9.38 p.m.

The moon turns reddish during the period from 9.38 p.m. to 12.06 a.m. when the earth, passing between it and the sun, completely blocks out the direct sunlight. The coppery hue results from the sun's rays bent as they pass through the earth's atmosphere.

Coming out of eclipse there is a second partial phase which ends at 1.08 a.m. Monday.

A spokesman for the observatory said yesterday the position of the moon low on the horizon in the southwest makes observation through the 74-inch reflecting telescope impractical.

The last total eclipse of the moon seen in this area was in March this year.

Cyclist Clocks 40,000 Miles

A young Victoria motorcyclist, who started off for South America and finished up in England, returned home this week with nearly 2½ years and 40,000 miles of travel behind him.

When George Winterburn and Paul Jones set off from Victoria in May, 1958, they had South America in mind. Arriving at the Mexican border they found the Pan American Highway in no shape to be travelled so they turned north again.

The pair split up at Laredo, Texas, and did not meet again until they arrived in Windsor, Ont.

ENGLAND NEXT

Here the partnership broke up. George still had the wanderlust and since he could not get to South America he thought he'd have a look at England.

The young motorcyclist worked in Montreal long enough to earn his passage then loaded his bike and himself aboard a boat. He arrived in Southhampton with £25.

It took £19 to licence and insure his motorcycle, and rather than appeal for welfare he wandered around London for three days looking for work with little food and less sleep. The fourth day he got a job and lodgings within hours. Building up another travelling fund, he toured England and set off for Europe.

George found the Riviera hot all he had hoped it would be. "There were a lot of fine beaches but it cost money to get on them," he said.

Running low on funds he tried to get a job in Italy, but foreigners were banned from jobs due to serious unemployment.

He wired home for money and boarded the Constitution for the trip home.

Empress Institution To Be Brightened

Nothing drastic, of course, but that rich but somewhat sombre Victoria institution, the Empress Hotel dining room, may be brightened up next year.

"We haven't a definite plan yet," hotel manager Cyril Chapman said yesterday. "But we hope to do it next January or February."

The walls and drapes will be brightened, he indicated, but the character of the room won't be greatly altered. The ornate ceiling will be kept as it is.

Grits Grit Teeth At Ray's Delays

'Won't Win This Way Mother!'

By PETER BRUTON

THE SCENE: The big Liberal rally in the Dominion Theatre last night didn't go quite as smoothly as organizers had hoped.

Liberal leader Ray Perrault was an hour late in arriving, causing anxious Grits to pace up and down outside muttering such comments as "Do you think he missed the plane?" "What will we do if he doesn't arrive?" "Maybe the plane wasn't supposed to leave Vancouver until 8 p.m." "What will we do if he doesn't arrive?"

Victoria Liberal campaign manager David Hummel, who with local candidates tried to hold the fort until Mr. Perrault arrived, was a trifle nervous.

He drew a laugh when he introduced candidate Geoff Edgelow as a man who had spent "three years overhead . . . I mean overseas."

Although organizers said the downstairs of the theatre was "packed" there were 73 vacant seats in the first five rows when the meeting began and many more behind them.

One young Liberal had a personal disaster — someone collided with his new sports car parked outside.

The Gashouse Six Dixieland band playing outside the theatre consisted of only five musicians.

And the vocalist who led the singing of "When the Grits Go Marching In" somehow got her "Grits" and "Saints" a little mixed up.

"Humph!" commented an elderly member of the audience. "They won't win this way, Mother."

★ ★ ★

WEIGHTY DIET: All this hurried politicking is having an odd effect on CCF leader Robert Strachan.

He's lost more than 20 pounds already.

★ ★ ★

REAL REASON: Socred Don Smith, seeking re-election in Victoria, has a different story to tell about his visit to local jazz nightspot "The Scene" during the weekend:

"I visited the Scene to see whether it was true the Victoria Liberal campaign was originating from there," he said. "I found this to be true. And that's the reason why so many longtime Liberals who can no longer dig this new Go Grit Beatnik campaign are joining Social Credit."

★ ★ ★

DIVIDED LOYALTY: Mrs. Jacqueline Mitchell could not make up her mind last night whether to go to hear her son, Frank, who is CCF candidate in Oak Bay, or her husband, Geoff, CCF candidate in Esquimalt.

She did neither.

Mrs. Mitchell decided to go to Nanaimo to hear CCF Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan instead.

★ ★ ★

POLE-AXED: Political campaign offices in Cowichan-Newcastle have all received letters which state bluntly:

"With the election coming up there is the possibility that some people might consider using our poles on which to mount posters. These posters are a hazard to the lives of our linesmen and in the interest of safety we are requesting that all parties refrain from attaching posters to our poles."

★ ★ ★

The letters were sent out by B.C. Power Commission and candidates in the riding, represented in the last legislature by CCF leader Robert Strachan, are not using the poles for their poster-locations.

But just across "the border" there are a lot of posters on telephone and power poles. Most of them are for Social Credit candidate Herb Bruch.

★ ★ ★

COST OF PROGRESS: If the Progressive Conservatives weren't Progressive their candidates' names would be a lot higher on the ballots on Sept. 12 voting day.

The ballots will have the names of the government—Social Credit — candidates in top position followed by the candidates for the Opposition —the CCF.

After that the order will be alphabetical: Communists if any; Liberals and Progressive Conservatives.

★ ★ ★

SLIPPED DISC: CCF leader Robert Strachan says the government is always telling its opposition to look at the record.

"I wish I could but they won't let me," he said. "I'd love to see the RCMP report on Sommers, the Carrothers report on civil service, the report on education finance."

★ ★ ★

INDIVIDUAL CAMPAIGN: Victoria Liberals are leaving no stone unturned in their search for supporters.

In the past few days more than 7,000 letters angled towards specific business and ethnic groups have been sent out in Victoria.

Different style letters—but each containing the same message of "vote for us"—have gone out to every Victoria doctor, dentist, Chinese and East Indian as well as every person who has become a Canadian citizen since 1956.

And the letters to Chinese and East Indian voters were translated into their respective languages.

★ ★ ★

DIFFERENT TUNE: The opposition glibly changes its tune to suit political expediency, according to Saanich Socred John Tisdalle.

He notes with amusement how the opposition parties vociferously attack the province's debt-free status. For he vividly recalls that when the vote on Bill 55—which in effect proclaimed B.C. debt free—came last March only one man in the legislature stood up to be counted as against the measure.

And that lone voice was Tom Uphill, the fiery old independent member for Fernie who is not standing this year.

Other opposition members voted with the government.

★ ★ ★

FAULTY FILES: Tight travelling and speaking schedule of CCF leader Robert Strachan has even his own campaign headquarters in Vancouver confused.

Yesterday his staff looked up his itinerary, saw that he was scheduled to be in Kitimat and spent a fruitless afternoon trying to contact him there.

They apparently forgot they had issued a corrected itinerary switching dates between Prince Rupert and Kitimat a week or so ago.

★ ★ ★

WORKING ON THE RAILROAD: Socred Waldo Skillings' charge that hordes of Saskatchewan jobless were fleeing the CCF government to come to B.C. was interpreted this way by Oak Bay Liberal candidate Alan Macfarlane:

"Truth of the matter is that the jobless are probably coming to Prince George to work on that magnificent railroad of Mr. Bennett's. Eight got jobs on the Pacific Northern Railway and the rest are still waiting."

★ ★ ★

SPEEDY SERVICE: Recreation Minister Earle C. Westwood told a Sidney audience the other night that Socret candidate John Tisdalle had been giving him a bad time over the removal of a sign from the entrance to John Dean Park.

A new sign was just about ready to be placed in position, he told an applauding audience.

They were somewhat amazed when, on their way home, they saw the new sign already erected.

★ ★ ★

HANDS OFF!: Esquimalt Liberal standard-bearer George Whittaker is having to change his views about old-style electioneering procedures.

He complains that every time he is about to kiss a baby his wife, who doubles as his campaign manager, drily comments: "That's no baby!"

★ ★ ★

PEACEFUL CO-EXISTENCE: Alberni Social Credit candidate Fred Duncan was marooned in the West Coast community of Ucluelet when bad weather grounded his chartered aircraft.

He finally hitched a ride from Mark Mosher, the Communist candidate standing for the same riding.

★ ★ ★

DOUBLE BILL: Liberal rally in the old Dominion Theatre last night had some strong competition from the Plaza Theatre next door.

Two movies playing at the Plaza: "Cat on a Hot Tin Roof," and "The Crooked Shadow."

Free Dentures Brighten Pensioner Smiles

Six Greater Victoria pensioners are smiling happily nowadays—with new teeth supplied free by Victoria dentists.

They were the first to take advantage of the Victoria and District Dental Society's offer to supply false teeth to worthy pensioners.

But an unexpected problem has grown out of the offer—several of the pensioners insisted on making what payment they can afford for the teeth.

So a special fund has been established to be spent on suitable experimental projects in the field of the welfare of aged persons.

The fund will be administered by representatives from the Victoria Dental Society, the Silver Threads Service and the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria.

Dr. R. L. Horne, president of Victoria Dental Society said last night that dental societies throughout British Columbia are showing interest in the Victoria experiment and similar schemes may develop in other centres.

Executive officers of Greater Victoria pensioner groups "screen" applications for free dental work and successful applicants are allocated to dentists by a special committee.

B.C. Oarsmen Spark Great Day at Olympics

British Columbia had a great day at the Olympic Games yesterday.

Frank Reid's University of British Columbia eight-oared crew and Vancouver sprinter Harry Jerome aren't gold medal winners yet, but yesterday they turned in performances which showed just why they have been rated as the brightest hopes for Canadian victory at Rome.

UBC's oarsmen, only one of whom was in the crew which won a silver medal in the 1956 Games at Melbourne, came up with the shocker of the day by outpulling the favored U.S. Naval Academy eight by a length in a heat victory which put them into the final.

Getting the kind of weather they are used to—a stiff breeze made it choppy going—the British Columbians not only won the race but their time of 6.03.18 was faster than the clocking of any Olympic winner since 1928.

By comparison, the German and Czechoslovakian crews, who also won their heats to reach the final, were clocked in 6.03.34.

Behind Canada and the U.S. in the heat were Russia, Italy, Denmark and Spain. Losers in all three heats will get a second chance in the repechages, with three boats to join the three heat-winners for the final.

Jerome, co-holder of the world 100-metres record of 10 seconds with Germany's Armin Hary, won both his heats yesterday to qualify for the semi-finals.

The slim but husky Canadian ace won his first heat handily in 10.5 seconds, but it was tougher the second time out. He leaned into the tape to get the judges' decision in a blanket finish with Peter Radford of England, A. Seye of France and S. Antao of Kenya. All four were timed in 10.4 seconds but Seye was placed fourth—and eliminated.

Victoria's Lynn Eves was eliminated in his first heat, placing fourth when starry Dave Sime of the U.S. came up fast to barely qualify with a third-place finish. Eves was timed in 10.8 seconds. (Complete details on Page 12.)

'Wenner-Gren Pawn' Says Angry Strachan

★ ★ ★

CCF leader Robert Strachan last night angrily charged that either an old-line party or big business "probably paid" Canadian Communist leader Tim Buck to say that Communists were taking an active part in the formation of the new CCF-labor political alliance.

"It's dirty, how dirty can they get," thundered Mr. Strachan in Prince Rupert when The Daily Colonist informed him that Mr. Buck had stated 60 members of his Communist party were campaigning within the ranks of labor in negotiations on a merger with the CCF.

PRIMED UNIONISTS

Mr. Buck said about one-third of his members were hiding their political allegiance to avoid being expelled. The infiltrators, he said, were trade unionists primed with communist schooling.

The country's top Red said the infiltrators' main aim was to have the proposed political party revoke its ban on communism before the official merger next August.

"Mr. Buck is obviously mentally incompetent," said Mr. Strachan.

'BIG BUSINESS'

"Big business in this province has become so desperate to try to prevent a CCF victory that it would not surprise me that when the truth comes out we find that big business in this province has paid Mr. Buck to do this."

The CCF leader charged that the Communists were always ready to make a deal with anyone if it suited their purpose, as was big business always willing to make a deal with anyone to gain its ends.

NO PLACE

"There is no place in the CCF for Communists and there never will be as long as I am CCF leader," declared Mr. Strachan.

In a later statement he charged that Mr. Buck had become the "pawn of Mr. Bennett, Wenner-Gren and his other allies."

SAANICH REPLY

In reply to a question at the all-candidate forum at Brentwood last night Saanich CCF candidate Pat Thomas admitted there were Communists in the CCF.

But he warned this should not be misconstrued by the public that the CCF "welcomed" such individuals who managed to infiltrate into the CCF ranks through their positions in certain groups within organized labor.

JODOIN REPLY

Meanwhile, in Ottawa, Canadian Labor Congress president Claude Jodoin described as "complete untruths" the statements by Mr. Buck.

"Mr. Buck, I presume, would say anything," said Mr. Jodoin.

Asked if the 1,000,000-member CLC or the CCF feared Communist infiltration in the new party at all he said:

"We have no fear of that. The CLC and its affiliates operate under the democratic system which Mr. Buck knows nothing about.

"The Canadian labor movement is very clean."

Stanley Knowles, executive vice-president of the CLC, former member of Parliament for the CCF and a prime mover in the formation of the new party, said simply: "It's nonsense."

Referring to Mr. Buck's statement that the immediate aim of the infiltrators is to have the proposed political party revoke its ban on communism, Mr. Knowles said:

"The suggestion that any such plan could succeed is sheer nonsense.

"The new party is on guard against any such infiltration," he added.

Mr. Buck also stated that Communists are attending educational conferences called by CCF-labor negotiators in preparation for the amalgamation convention next year.

"The top CCF leaders have refused to allow the Communist party any part in the new amalgamation movement," said Mr. Buck, "so we are bringing our influence to bear from without through our trade unionist members who are being included in the new political party."

He said the Communist party has been knocking on the door of the CCF-labor merger to provide a private arena where Communists and more moderate Socialists can settle their differences and present a united political front.

Mr. Buck, who is in B.C. to support 19 Communist candidates in the Sept. 12 election, said he will ask the party to replace him, after 31 years as national secretary.

WANTS TO RETIRE

He will be 70 in January and admitted that he would like to hand the party leadership to a younger successor.

Mr. Buck confided that he will request retirement at the party national convention in November and seek a position as a travelling speaker and a teacher in party schools across Canada.

Maritimers Flee Fire Disaster

HALIFAX (CP)—A 100-square-mile area of western Prince Edward Island was declared a disaster area Wednesday night as forest fires continued uncontrolled and residents were reported suffering from severe bronchial congestion from smoke.

Police began moving women and children from all villages to Summerside, 25 miles from the fires, and planned to continue the evacuation until all people affected by the smoke were removed.

Winds were increasing as firefighters tried vainly to check fresh outbreaks. More than 100 men and all available equipment have been fighting the fires since Sunday.

Schools, open for about two weeks, were closed in some areas, and workmen left their jobs when fire destroyed five homes and 21 barns.

About 400 residents of the southern Newfoundland communities of Jean de Baie, Spanish Room and Rocky Harbor were preparing to evacuate their homes in the face of a 1,000-acre fire.

In Nova Scotia an outbreak in western Cape Breton was reported burning a mile wide and heading for the tiny village of Grand Anse.

Neighboring States Blunt with Lumumba

LEOPOLDVILLE (AP)—African neighbors bluntly told Premier Patrice Lumumba's government Wednesday to stop harassing the United Nations and to co-operate with UN efforts to end the chaos within this two-month-old nation.

The setback for Lumumba in the conference of independent African states coincided with a report from Elisabethville of reverses for his troops in their campaign against rebels in Kasai province.

Free Road to Berlin Repudiated by Reds

BERLIN (UPI)—East Germany today repudiated four-power agreements giving the West free access to West Berlin and continued tightening its restrictions on traffic to the isolated city, despite a sharp Allied protest.

Claim that the four-power compacts were null and void was made by deputy foreign minister Otto Winzer, who maintained East Germany was a sovereign state, not bound by legal obligations contracted by the Soviet Union.

The Russians remained silent.

The new crackdown on travel aimed at keeping "agitators" from entering West Berlin to attend a four-day refugee rally.

The Communists refrained from interfering with rail and air traffic crossing the 110-mile corridor from West Germany, but turned back some cars and subjected others to long waits.

Baffling Speeder In Skies

BETHPAGE, N.Y. (AP) — A mysterious reddish object circling the earth has been photographed by a tracking camera of the Grumman Aviation Engineering Corporation.

It's a tenth the size of the Echo 1 balloon satellite and travelling twice as fast. It doesn't appear to be an artificial satellite or a meteor.

Cheers, Songs Greet Tommy

NANAIMO — A heckler-free crowd of more than 1,100 voters last night greeted diminutive Saskatchewan Premier Tommy Douglas with a standing ovation, then after his speech rose as a man to sing "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

In perhaps the largest election meeting ever staged here, Mr. Douglas quickly won the audience over to his side as he slashed statements made by Premier Bennett.

Mr. Douglas, likely new leader of the CCF-labor political party, spoke in support of Nanaimo CCF candidate Colin Cameron and CCF leader Robert Strachan.

He said industry doesn't come to a province because "the premier has a nice sweet smile or they like the looks of a cabinet minister. They come because a province has resources they can't get elsewhere and they hope to process them and get a return on their money.

"But in Saskatchewan industry will not be allowed to exploit labor or our resources without giving the people who own them adequate rewards for their use."

Fire Exodus 'Just Like Wartime'

QUEBEC (CP) — Villagers streamed out of two more Gaspe Peninsula towns Wednesday as a 14-day-old forest fire continued its rampage in Gaspe South County.

A policeman said it looked something like pictures of Second World War refugees fleeing towns under bombardment.

"Among the evacuees were families of 10, 12 and even 14 children," the policeman said. "They lost everything."

Mystery Deepens

SEATTLE (AP)—Discovery of an upper dental plate and a section of arm bone, sawed at both ends, added new mystery Wednesday to the "septic tank" murder case. They were not from either of two missing women police have been seeking. (See earlier story on Page 25.)
